

Nelson Halves Budget Hikes For Agencies

Approves $6 Million Boost; Units Asked $12 Million More

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
 Madison — Gov. Gaylord Nelson said today he has cut about in half the $12 million additional appropriation asked by state agencies the second year of the biennium.
 "We cut pretty deeply into a whole lot of areas. This is a pretty tight budget, regardless of what some people might say," Nelson said, disclosing the total at a news conference.
 The addition of $6,000,000 to the token budget approved for the second year of the biennium would raise to an estimated $26,000,000 the amount of new money which would have to be levied by the legislature.
 No Tax Base Change
 Nelson also confirmed there would be no proposals this fall for basic revisions of the state tax structure. He said it will be impossible for his citizens study committee to have its work completed by that time. Nelson said 1961 looks like the time when the job could be tackled.
 Nelson said a lack of understanding of the revenue tax structure problem remains as one of the largest obstacles.
 "If this committee would have been appointed a year ago, I suppose we might be ready. You aren't going to get it done in a year," Nelson said.

Find Parts of Child's Body

Unidentified Girl Murdered, Mequon Police Chief Says

Milwaukee — Additional remains of a little blonde girl who had been butchered and flung into underbrush along a suburban road were assembled today, Mequon Police Chief Robert Milke said. "There is no doubt but that she was murdered."
 First of the grisly finds came Sunday, when a woman looking for wild flowers came upon the head of the child, estimated to be between six and eight years old.
 Today, an organized search wading through soaked brush in a drenching rain found an arm, a leg bone and part of the child's torso in the same area. Also found was a partly burned cardboard box.
 Milwaukee authorities said the remains would be sent to the state crime laboratory in an effort to identify the girl and learn how she died.
 Dr. James Walsh, the Ozaukee county coroner, said the body apparently had been lying exposed in the area for 2 to 4 months.
 The father of a Milwaukee girl, who with her mother was reported missing May 13, was unable to identify the remains Sunday night.

Story, Photos Tell of Shopping Malls in 2 Cities

Post - Crescent Reporter James C. Newcomb accompanied a group of Appleton officials and businessmen on a trip to Kalamazoo, Mich., and Toledo, Ohio, over the weekend to take a close look at the shopping malls set up in those cities. His report on the trip includes information on the malls, reactions of townsfolk and businessmen to them and a look at some of the problems caused when a downtown area is closed off for such use.
 Will Appleton have a shoppers mall? No one knows, but you can get background information on the value and shortcomings of malls already set up if you read Newcomb's report on Page A-17.

Flash Floods, Tornadoes Hit Parts of Texas

Dallas — A weekend of weather gone wild slapped Texas with flash floods and tornadoes.
 They left two persons feared drowned, four others dead in accidents in which weather figured and millions of dollars in property damage.
 At least eight persons were injured in the tornadoes. There was no accurate count of persons injured in the floods.
 Dozens of families were made homeless and hundreds more returned to water-soaked, mud-filled houses as flood waters receded in some areas.
 Think Worst Over
 Weather forecasters and river watchers said cautiously today the worst may be over, however.
 Forecasts called for only scattered rain in the hill country of central and west Texas where flood destruction was centered after rains of up to 18 inches poured down from Friday night through yesterday.
 A spokesman for the Dallas weather bureau said the agency doesn't expect any repetition of the tornadoes which swept through two counties in this area early yesterday.
 Two women from hill country towns were believed to be victims of the flash floods. The auto of Mrs. W. R. Cook, of Leander, Texas, was found empty after water apparently swept it off a farm road.
 Mrs. Bertha Gouger, about 50, of Ingram, Texas, was presumed drowned after she was washed into the Guadalupe river after clinging to a tree for hours. Her husband, Bryan Gouger, was rescued.
 Four persons died in traffic accidents in which rain-slick roads were considered a factor.

Union Rejects Offer

Ike Airs New Appeal For Quick Settlement

BY JOHN MOODY
 Pittsburgh — The United Steelworkers today rejected an industry offer to end the 83-day old nationwide steel strike. Shortly afterward the industry said it would resume negotiations but declared it is "not willing to buy peace" at the risk of promoting inflation.
 As the rapid fire developments occurred here President Eisenhower again called for swift settlement of the strike. He has implied he will invoke the Taft-Hartley act to get the 500,000 Steelworkers back into the mills if no progress is made soon toward a settlement.
 The wage policy committee of the USW, which rejected the industry offer, stood by this afternoon for another meeting.
 Industry's Offer
 The industry spokesman, R. Conrad Cooper, said the offer rejected by the USW would have provided a 15-cent hourly package "providing for increased wages and benefits over the period of two years."
 David J. McDonald, president of the USW, said the wage policy committee rejected the industry offer because it was "completely unsatisfactory."
 To this, Cooper replied: "The union leaders persist in their demands for highly inflationary wage and benefit increases and proposed a settlement that would call for employment cost increases that could amount to 60 or more cents an hour over a 3-year period."
 Steelworkers averaged $3.11 an hour before the strike, according to government figures.
 Cooper said the union's rejection "coming as it does on the heels of President Eisenhower's appeal for a voluntary non-inflationary settlement clearly reveals the union leadership's responsibility for continuing the deadlock."
 Cooper said the industry "wants to make a reasonable settlement and to live with the union and its members in peace and harmony."

Pedestrian Dies Crossing Street In Kaukauna

City Registers First Traffic Fatality of Year; State Has 617

Lawrence Cotter, 54, of 217 Gertrude street, Kaukauna, died about 10:50 p. m. Sunday of injuries suffered when he was struck by a car while he was crossing the street in front of his home about 8 p. m.
 It was the first traffic fatality in Kaukauna this year and raised the Outagamie county total to 19, one more than the 1958 total and more than twice the number killed last year at this time.
 Alighted From Car
 Highway accidents in Wisconsin during the weekend took 10 lives and raised the state's total for the year to 617, five more than on the same day a year ago.
 Cotter was struck by a car driven by Joseph A. Porto, 38, of 513 Margaret street, Kaukauna, after Cotter alighted from a car driven by William Wood, 142 W. Third street, Kaukauna.
 Porto told Kaukauna police Cotter walked from behind the Wood car. Police said Porto's car skidded 32 feet before striking Cotter.
 State Accidents
 Coroner Bernard H. Kemps said Cotter died of a cerebral hemorrhage. His legs also were crushed. Cotter's legs had been badly damaged in a car accident some years ago.
 Richard J. Reimer, 24, and his brother, James A., 23, both of Sheboygan, were killed in a car accident last week.

2,000 Red Feather Volunteers Open $156,103 Drive Today

8 Agencies to Benefit From Funds Raised in UCS Campaign

More than 2,000 volunteer workers are participating in the 1960 United Community fund campaign as the drive gets underway today.
 A campaign goal of $156,103 has been set to meet the needs of eight Red Feather agencies partially supported by the United Community Services. That is 30 per cent more than was raised by the campaign last year.
 The eight agencies which benefit from UCS are Appleton Apostolate, Boy Scouts, Children's Service Society of Wisconsin, Girl Scouts, Lutheran Welfare Society of Wisconsin, Salvation Army, Visiting Nurse association, and the YMCA.
 Provide More Service
 The campaign goal has been increased for three reasons, A. Rowland Todd, executive director of United Community Services, says.
 First, agency services have increased 30 to 35 per cent in the last three years.
 Fair Share Plan
 Second, reserve funds built up over the years have been needed to support the agencies. At present, they are receiving monthly allotments because there is not enough money to pay them on the usual quarterly basis.
 Third, Todd said, is that contributions by business, professional men, and the public have been lower, proportionately, than in other communities of similar size.
 The fund drive, which runs from Oct. 5 to Oct. 29, has been organized in eight divisions to facilitate solicitations. Each department has been given its own goal.
 A plan has been devised by United Community Services.

Biemiller Sees Recession Peril

Washington — The AFL-CIO told congress today the Eisenhower administration's economic policies are bringing the threat of a new recession.
 Andrew J. Biemiller, legislative director for the organization, made the statement at the opening of a series of hearings by a special senate committee on unemployment problems. The senators are trying to find out why about three million workers are unemployed despite general prosperity.

Safely in Port

Race Hurricane While Fighting Fire on Ship

BY BERNARD BROWN
 St. George, Bermuda — The crew of the American freighter Mormacel took a breather in port today after successfully fighting a fire at sea while being chased by a hurricane.
 Capt. John M. Hultman said proudly he expects to resume his voyage from New York to Latin America.
 The sturdy 6,184-ton freighter, carrying a crew of 44 and 11 passengers, came through fire and storm bruised but not structurally damaged and with everyone aboard safe.
 The Mormacel reached port yesterday after a 24-hour struggle that began when an explosion set off a fire in the No. 3 hold of the ship. It was believed the storm shifted several barrels of combustible liquid which exploded.
 Hultman, a veteran of 45 years at sea from Lynbrook, N. Y., modestly credited his chief engineer, William Carey of Marine City, Mich., with being the hero.
 The skipper said the explosion rocked the ship early Saturday while he was below decks inspecting the steward's pantry.
 "The whole ship was in flames—and in a hurricane!" he said.
 "The No. 3 hatch had blown up. We rang general quarters and everyone took his station. We had the passengers put on life jackets and gave them a little spirits to keep out the cold while the crew fought the fire."
 Hultman said he switched his course to the east to escape Hurricane Hannah, which was coming up from the south on a westward curve. But Hannah swung east and chased the ship.
 "We had strong 90-mile-an-hour winds. For we were right on the edge of the hurricane. We had rough seas, 20 feet at least. Everything on the ship went—that is, everything that could move moved."
 The freighter finally succeeded in weathering the storm and putting out the flames. She steamed quietly into harbor to check on the damage to the cargo.

First Photographs to be Taken Tomorrow From 'Flying Space Laboratory'

BY PRESTON GROVER
 Moscow — (AP)—The flying Soviet space laboratory will reach its closest distance to the moon tomorrow and make mankind's first photographs of its hidden face, Tass said today.
 Slowed by the relentless gravitation tug of the earth, the flying laboratory should come within 4,350 miles of the moon at 5 p.m. (8 a.m. CST) Tuesday, the official news agency said.
 As it approached the moon, the interplanetary station, as the Russians call it, has separated from the last stage of the cosmic rocket that launched it yesterday, Tass added.
 The agency said that at noon Moscow time (3 a. m. CST) the station was 248,000 kilometers (154,000 miles) from the earth and over the

Doubts Description Strictly Accurate

Cambridge, Mass. — The director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical observatory questions the Russians' use of the term "interplanetary station" to describe their latest space vehicle.
 Dr. Fred L. Whipple said last night: "I suspect they are using a fancy term to give people the impression they have something they do not."
 He said it is his impression the Russians put into orbit a rocket around the moon, not a space station.
 Western scientists, Whipple added, use the term "interplanetary station" to describe a big satellite which can be used to land on, live on and launch other rockets.

U. S. Experts Seek More Data

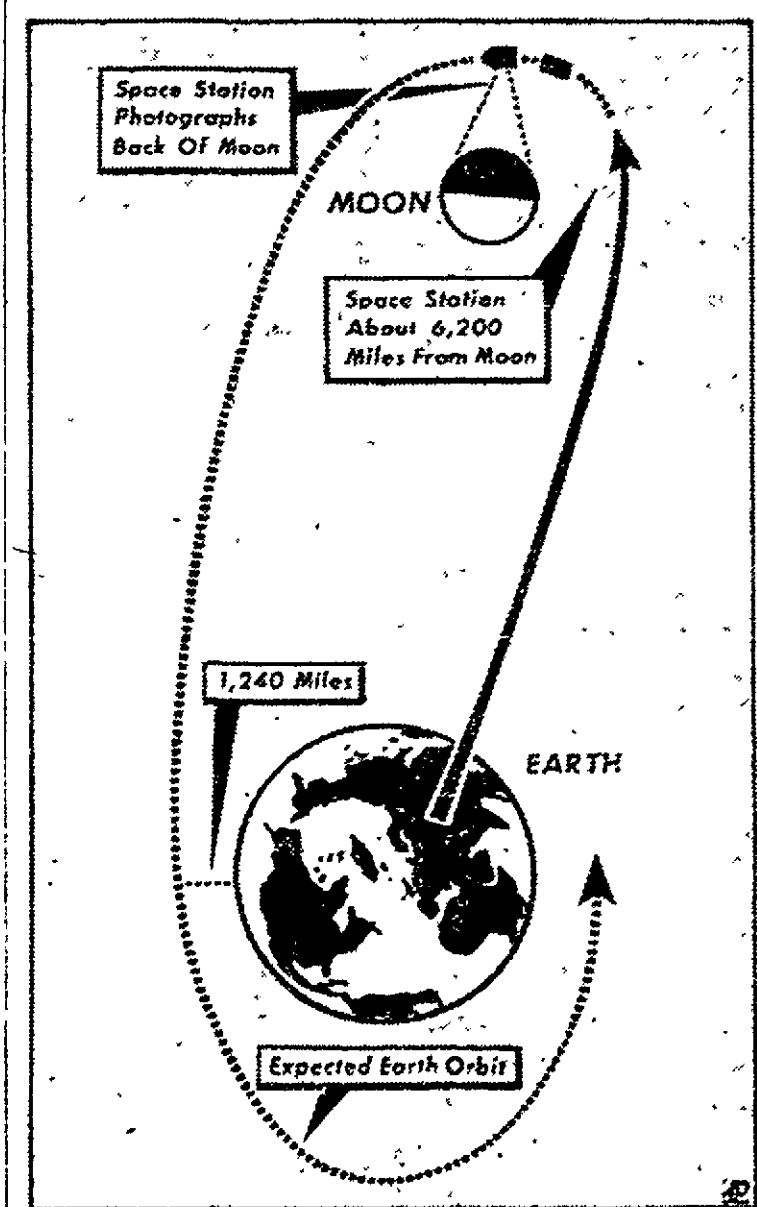

Want to Know of Performance by Space Vehicle
 BY JOE F. KANE
 Washington — American scientists have tipped their hats to the Russians who launched a new space vehicle yesterday.
 They withheld any big slaps on the back until they see how the space traveler performs.
 There was no attempt to discredit the Soviet launching itself — only a wait and see attitude on its performance. The U. S. space officials did not know for sure just what kind of a vehicle had been launched, where it was to go and what it was to do. Their information was limited almost entirely to that given out by the Russians — and that was vague.
 Awaiting Data
 T. Keith Glennan, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said he had received word of the launching with considerable interest. He added: "We recognize the significance of this effort to send a probe around the moon and extend our congratulations. With the rest of the world scientific community we shall await the data from this new probe in its journey between the earth and the moon."
 There was a question as to whether the vehicle was meant to make one or more circles around the moon or merely include it in a big orbit around the earth.

Oklahoma Sees Break in Rains After 6 Days

Tulsa, Okla. — A ray of sunshine was cast today by the weather bureau which said weather-weary Oklahomans could expect a break in the 6-day deluge of rain.
 Hundreds of families were still unable to get back into their flooded homes at Guthrie and Stillwater, in the north central section, and in Tulsa. The water receded overnight at Stillwater and Guthrie while the Arkansas river here was 21 feet over flood stage early today.
 The Tulsa river forecast center said little change was expected in the Arkansas for the next 36 hours. Many of the shallow rivers and streams in the flatlands of northern Oklahoma continued to spread out over miles of lowlands.

Clouds Get Priority Over Sun These Days

Wisconsin — Clearing and cooler tonight. Tuesday partly cloudy and a little cooler most sections. Outlook for Wednesday: Increasing cloudiness, little change in temperature.
 Appleton — Temperatures for the 24-hour period ending 9 a.m. today: High 62, low 50. Temperature at 10 a.m. today, 53, with the discomfort index at 60. Barometer reading 30.00 inches with wind nine miles an hour from the northeast. Precipitation up to 10 a.m. today, .38 of an inch.
 Sun sets at 5:28 p.m., rises Tuesday at 5:56 a.m.; moon sets at 7:49 p.m.

This Chart Shows How the Russians expect their 614-pound satellite "space station," which was shot into space early this morning to shoot around the underside of the moon and make pictures of its hidden face. It would then head back in a big cigar-shaped orbit and start going around the earth.

Dock Officials to Meet Mediators

Both Sides of 5-Day-Old Strike By Longshoremen Have Separate Talks but Will Not Get Together

New York — Representatives of both sides in the 5-day-old Longshoremen's strike planned to meet separately today with federal mediators.

But there was practically no hope that they would confer with each other. A mediator doubted there would be joint negotiations before next month.

The prospect of no progress heightened the possibility that the government would move to end by court order the strike that has paralyzed ports from Maine to Texas.

Flood of Complaints
The economic impact of the walkout by 85,000 dock workers—catching the nation in the throes of the most severe steel strike in its history—has set off a flood of complaints to Washington.

If the efforts of Federal Mediator Robert H. Moore fail to crack the negotiation deadlock, President Eisenhower could invoke the Taft-Hartley law for an 80-day return to work period.

Moore was not optimistic. He was scheduled to meet with officials of the International Longshoremen's association first today, then con-

800 Cases on Docket for Supreme Court

Expect Important Decisions in Field Of Civil Rights

Washington — The supreme court reassembles today to open a new term that is certain to produce important decisions in the civil rights field.

Two pilot appeals directly affecting enforcement of the 1957 Civil Rights act are among the more than 800 cases already entered on the court's unusually heavy docket.

Heading the civil rights cases is a justice department appeal from a decision by a federal judge in Georgia that a section of the 1957 act is unconstitutional. He said it is invalid because it gave the attorney general authority to seek injunctions not only against state officials but against private citizens as well.

The supreme court will hear arguments on this appeal later in the fall. It is expected to announce soon whether it will hear arguments on another justice department appeal, this one from a decision by a federal judge in Alabama. The decision was that the act did not empower the attorney general to sue a state.

Negro Vote Rights
The decisions dismissed the first two cases filed by the justice department under the act in efforts to enforce voting rights of Negroes. Department counsel said the cases must be settled finally by the supreme court before the act is truly workable.

New appeals involving other racial issues ask review of lower court decisions that (1) resulted in closing Prince Edward county, Va., public schools; (2) barred the Norfolk, Va., city council from shutting off funds for second-grade schools; (3) required Negroes seeking to enter North Carolina white schools to use all state procedures before complaining to federal courts; (4) held there was no discrimination involved in the dropping of Negro teachers when Moberly, Mo., put into effect a school integration plan; (5) ruled a Negro on an interstate bus trip could be fined $10 for refusing to leave a restaurant for whites in a Richmond interstate bus terminal.

The supreme court already has granted a hearing on an appeal by five Negro golfers convicted of trespassing on a course in Greensboro, N. C. It also will hear an appeal by the National association for the Advancement of Colored People in a case from Little Rock, Ark. The NAACP challenged validity of an ordinance requiring it to give the city lists of members and contributors.

5 Months Needed to Fix Launching Pad
Cape Canaveral, Fla. — The launching pad destroyed 11 days ago by the explosion of an Atlas-Able moon rocket will be out of commission about five months, the air force missile test center announced today.

The Atlas-Able, designed to hurl a 375-pound satellite around the moon early this month, blew up during a static test of its engines, inflicting heavy damage to the pad. The National Aeronautics and Space administration is studying the possibility of using other facilities at the cape for launching a similar rocket.

Army Vehicles Battle Snow In Colorado to Save Cattle
Westcliffe, Colo. — Army vehicles churned through heavy snowdrifts today delivering hay to an estimated 6,000 starving cattle, marooned in mountain pastures.

More than 4,000 of the stranded cattle were reached yesterday by the army weasels pulling cargo sleds loaded with hay.

Dozens of cattle have died as the result of a vicious snowstorm that dumped more than 3 feet of snow in a 3-day span ended last Saturday. Drifts ranged up to 7 and 8 feet in depth.

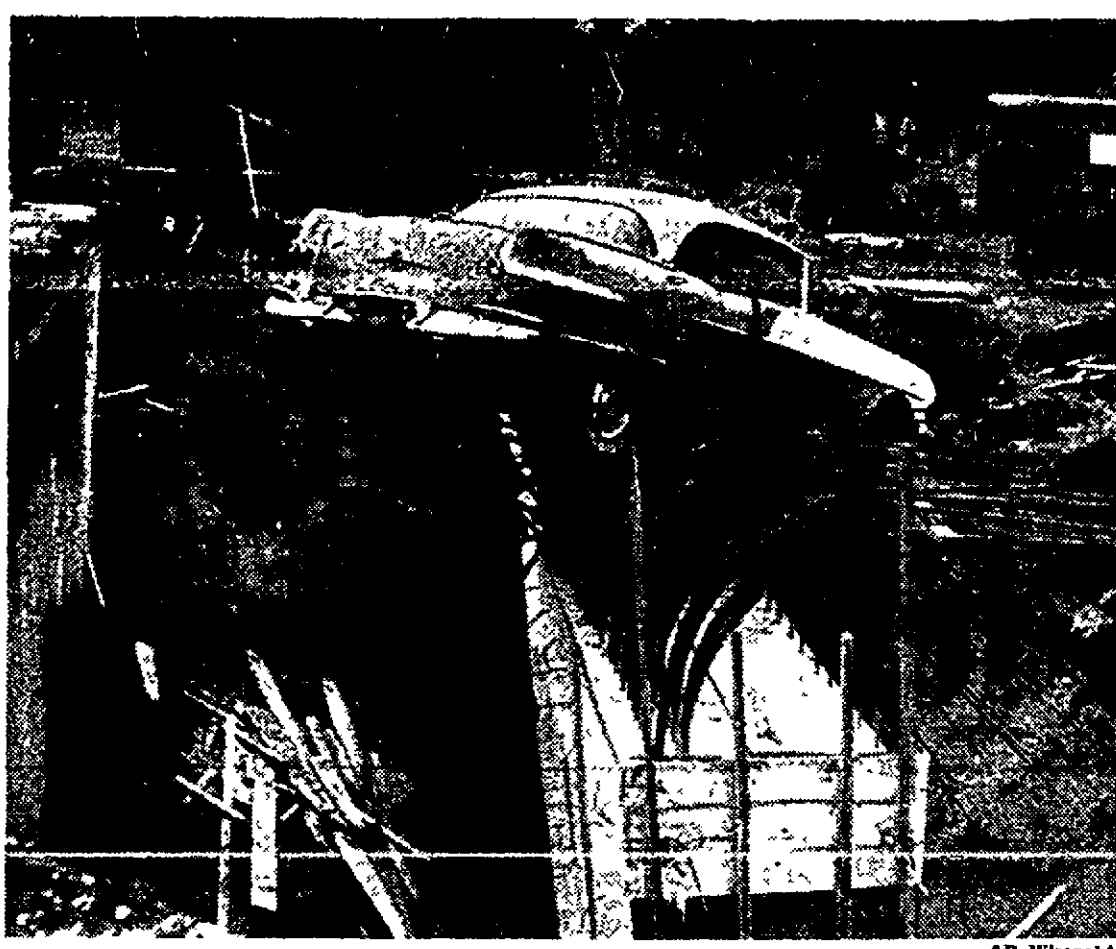

Some of the cattle died when their tongues froze to the snow, swelled and choked them to death. This occurred as the cattle tried to nuzzle through the snow in search of forage.

There were no reports of any severe human suffering among the 1,400 residents of Custer county. Westcliffe, a town of 350, is the county seat. The snowbound area is high in the Sangre De Cristo range, 250 miles southwest of Denver.

An army helicopter brought Mrs. Dan Hansen and her 24-year-old daughter from their remote mountain ranch cabin to Westcliffe for medical treatment yesterday. The child was ill of a sore throat. They were flown back home after the child received an injection.

Eight other persons were brought here by helicopters to receive fuel supplies. Later they were returned to their homes by the 'copters.

Authorities Recheck Irvine Death Mystery

Body of Millionaire to be Exhumed to Answer Family Questioning Incident

Santa Ana, Calif. — Authorities are re-investigating the mysterious death last Jan. 11 of millionaire Myford (Mike) Irvine.

The district attorney has plans to exhumate the body. Irvine headed a family-owned 90,000-acre ranch 30 miles southeast of Los Angeles—a fabulous empire that occupies one sixth of booming Orange county. He died in the basement of his 19th century mansion in nearby Tustin. Two shotgun blasts had ripped his abdomen. There was a pistol bullet in his brain.

List as Suicide
Investigators listed the death as suicide. But recently members of the family have been asking:

How could any man have the strength to aim a bullet into his head after the shock of two blasts from a shotgun? Or, how could he fire a shotgun twice with a bullet in his brain?

Mrs. Thurmond Clarke, wife of a federal judge, and her daughter, Mrs. Joan Irvine Burt, Irvine's niece, demanded an answer. Mrs. Clark, who before her marriage to the judge was the widow of Irvine's brother James, said she believed the 38-year-old multimillionaire was murdered.

The women hired two private investigators to look into the matter. They will be out of commission about five months, the air force missile test center announced today.

Texas Investors Considering New Business Area
Houston, Texas — A group of investors is reported considering a multi-million dollar downtown business community which would be Houston's answer to New York's Rockefeller center.

The Houston Chronicle said the group is led by Corbin Robertson, Douglas Marshall and Isaac Arnold, sons-in-law of the late Hugh Roy Cullen. The Chronicle said they have purchased most of six blocks of land south of the Houston Civic Center.

Welton Becket, Los Angeles architectural-engineering firm, is conducting a feasibility survey of the project, the newspaper said.

Changing Times Alert Given '60 GOP Architects

Thousands Talk of New Goals and of Budget-Balancing

Washington — Architects of the 1960 GOP platform are going to get thousands of words alerting Republicans to changing times—and the unchanging goal of budget-balancing.

The Republican committee on program and progress, headed by Charles H. Percy, of Chicago, seems likely to wind up in a series of five reports by advising the party to be flexible but to stand firmly against "paternalistic" government and deficit spending.

In two reports released during the weekend, the 40-member group called on Republicans to be "flexible and imaginative in welcoming change" but to continue to resist "vast new spending programs directed from Washington."

3 Reports Coming
Upcoming are three more reports on "national security and peace," "human rights and needs," and "economic opportunity and progress."

All of these peer ahead of 1976, the 20th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, in an effort to prepare the GOP for things to come. They will go to the 1960 convention platform committee for its consideration.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon said the report "presents the Republican party as a party of dynamic progress."

"This report brings home the fact that we are conservative because we want progress. We oppose programs which place what we believe to be too much emphasis on federal government action—not because they promise too much but because they would produce too little."

Lodge Sees Summit Session in Winter

Tells Television Audience That Visit By Khrushchev Has Paved Way for Meeting

New York — Henry Cabot Lodge, U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations, says he believes Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's recent tour of the United States paved the way for a summit meeting this winter.

Lodge, who accompanied Khrushchev throughout his travels in this country, said yesterday on a television program that he detected an "evolution" in the Soviet line.

"They used to say, for example, that if war came they wouldn't be hurt but all the democratic countries would be hurt," Lodge commented. "Well, now they don't say that. Mr. Khrushchev said only a madman would want war."

Will Not Run
During the interview Lodge also said he will not run for any office, including the presidency or vice presidency, in 1960 and "I don't think I could be drafted either."

Denied emphatically that he had been ordered by President Eisenhower to needle Khrushchev during the tour. He also denied that he was a "truth squad" assigned to counter any Soviet propaganda.

Declined comment on a report that Khrushchev had claimed Russia cracked an American secret code.

Victor M. Carter, president of Republic movie studios, said the premier had told him during his visit to Los Angeles that American agents in Europe and the Middle East gave the Russians U. S. code books. Lodge said he was with Carter and Khrushchev at the time but declined to discuss what was said.

CIA Report
In Washington the Central Intelligence agency confirmed that Carter had made a report on Khrushchev's comments, but would not go into detail on what he said. A spokesman said the matter had been brought to the attention of Allen W. Dulles,

Journalism Fraternity Criticizes Dismissal Of Houston Policeman
Houston, Texas — The firing of a policeman on charges including unauthorized release of a story to a newspaper drew criticism yesterday from Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity.

Officials in suburban Deer Park fired Patrolman Ken McDaniel after a story appeared in the Houston Post telling how he subdued a big toad with a pistol butt.

"If McDaniel's release of a story to a Houston newspaper was responsible for his dismissal from the Deer Park police force, the action on the part of his superiors is certainly deplored by the chapter," Farris Block, president of the Texas Gulf Coast chapter, said.

Mayor Jimmy Wright said the load story "triggered" the dismissal but that McDaniel would have been discharged anyway. He said the officer had broken other department regulations.

McDaniel admitted he once put "the wrong guy" in jail.

Stephensville's Bohman Family Charms Charlie With Its Happiness

When we see
The good there is
For us to do,
We realize what
A beautiful thing
It is To work,
To love,
And to be Happy

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Shiocton—That motto, which hangs in a room of the Anton Bohman farm near Stephensville where I slumbered Friday night, is not only a splendid one, but it seems to capture in few words the rare, good, wholesome happiness of that delightful family.

Rain had brought me to not-so-creaky a stop on County Trunk MM and two of the Bohman sons, Francis, 38, and Anthony, 33, took pity on this wayfarer. In moments I was seated at a big kitchen table, dining elegantly on a bowl of late raspberries with cream.

If I were a fine painter I would wish to paint these new friends of mine. Their mutual respect of each other, their piety, and their love of the land pleased and warmed me.

Contentment

While I helped with the milking Friday night, Francis said conversationally, "I like the sound of cows chewing. Somehow it makes me happy."

Francis, eldest of the six Bohman sons and daughters, owns the farm across the road. Anthony's farm, just a mile south, is close enough to keep family members near each other. Bill, 29, is in the process of building a place a half mile from his dad's farm. Mary and her husband, Ken, have land only a quarter mile from the homestead; and pretty Therese, recently wed to a physician, may soon join him in Japan. He is a medical officer in the United States air force.

Only Edward, 37, has left the vicinity of his birth and now is a farmer in Idaho.

"We all sure hated to see Edward leave," said Bill. "He is a better man than any of us."

"Happy in the Land"

If this is so, it becomes my opinion that he is an extraordinary fellow indeed, for, though I have traveled long and widely, I have never met a family easier to love.

All are handsome, healthy, wholesome, and each of them is happy on the land.

But I must not boast so thoroughly of the Bohman family that I omit dutifully recording my day's activities.

I remained Saturday to pull my way on the farm and to stay as long as I could — and help eat the fresh apple pie.

Picked Apples

Out in the Bohman apple orchard I became a reasonably deft apple picker. With Bill and Anthony and young Mike, a son of Francis, we picked 40 bushels of beautiful, ripe, wondrously sweet apples — McIntosh, Courtlands, Champions and others I do not know.

I hope a report of the joy I felt in this work is not trite for I think bountiful nature is wondrous to see. The 15 acres of apple trees were festooned with big, luscious apples. It is one of the good rewards we may have for living in a troubled world.

The Bohmans simply let folks know that apples are ready and they quickly are sold to local people who come to buy them by the bushel.

This year's crop is so good that some of the better trees produce as many as 20 bushels.

Help Each Other

The good relations between members of the Bohman family are such that everybody pitches in to help each other. There's no bookkeeping, no suggestion of payment.

"Whoever needs help the most is the one who has a lot of ready farm hands," says Francis. "Helping each other is just a family procedure."

Mr. Bohman, 64, purchased this farm south of Stephensville in 1919, and by investing years of hard work in it has what he calls "a good farm."

It is, indeed. And it is this reporter's observation that it's principal crop is a gay, jubilant, happy family.

Stephensville Stop

I left the Bohman farm late Saturday afternoon with some reluctance, and under a sunny sky, I moved north into Stephensville, a community of about 150 people.

I chatted with Wilbur Levezow, a stalwart of the community for 50 years, and I spoke, too, with 80-year-old John Puls, the second-eldest citizen in Stephensville.

The oldest fellow, Clyde Main, a scant 81, outranks John, but John denies he is envious of that single year.

Much as the folks in many a town, my Stephensville friends have forgotten the history of the region.

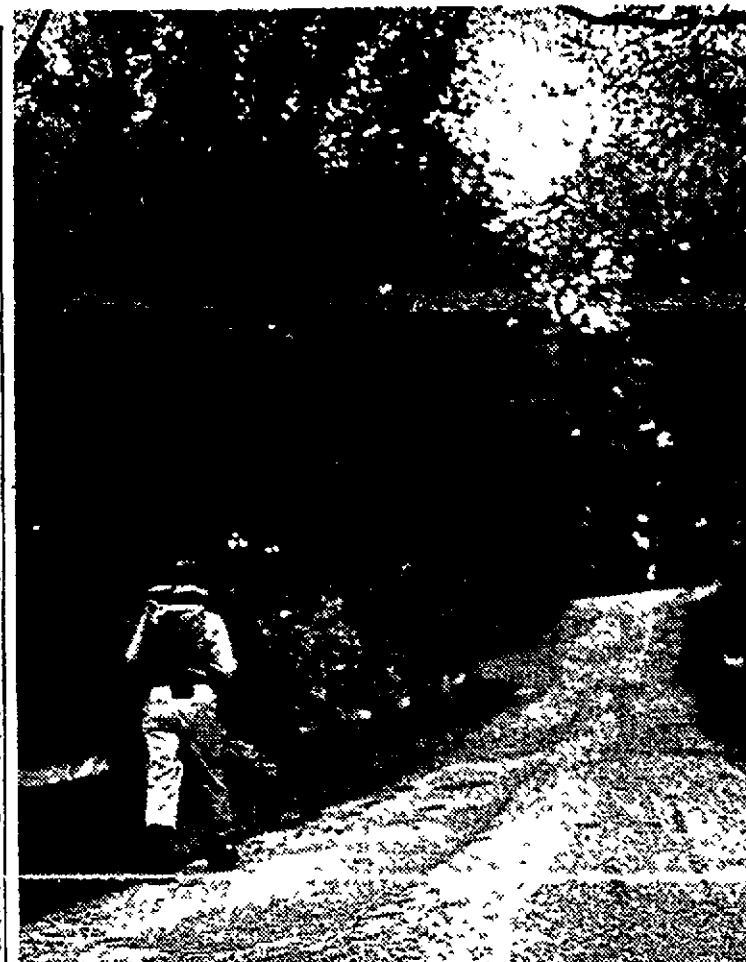

Perhaps someday I shall return and mount a major research campaign to bring Stephensville history into memory.

Until then, though, let me quote Mr. Levezow, who put it this way: "Stephensville is a nice little town. We don't bother anybody and they don't bother us. We get along fine."

British Elections Rough

Public Has Fun but Candidates Worry

BY TOM OCHILTREE

London — A British election campaign is something like an American one—only rougher.

Audiences at political meetings here look upon the campaign as a sport, something like indoor bull fighting with the candidate taking the part of the worried bull.

Harold Macmillan and Hugh Gaitskell are making whistle stop tours, even picking up the phrase itself from American politics.

These are small-scale things compared with the campaign swings made by American presidential candidates. There are no giant rallies of the Madison Square garden type, no torch light parades or strutting bands.

The voting for a new 630-seat house of commons takes place next Thursday. The campaign is entering its final stage, but by British standards a meeting of 3,000 is considered large.

All the leading figures in British politics make repeated stops in market squares and before factory gates to address small knots of people.

Fun For People

They reach mass audiences through political broadcasts on television. The face-to-face encounter of the candidate and the citizenry still represents the true heart and spirit of British electioneering.

British citizens have fun during a campaign. They like nothing better than to heckle a cabinet minister or a man who hopes to become one. The bigger the target, the better the fun.

There are limits. The chairman of a meeting can ask partly stewards to throw out a particularly annoying questioner. Even then, a London judge has held, the person rushed to the exit has a right "not to be thrown out with unnecessary violence." If too much muscle is used, the ejected heckler can file suit against the chairman and the stewards.

There is a difference between heckling and trying to break up a meeting. In the latter case the chairman can call in the police.

Runs to Save Pants

One of the roughest incidents reported thus far followed a meeting in Reading. As laborite Aneurin Bevan left the hall, a group of cadets from Sandhurst, Britain's West Point, attempted to strip him of his trousers, a process known as debagging. The 30 cadets chased Bevan 50 yards before the labor party's foreign affairs expert found sanctuary in a pub.

Macmillan sometimes out-faces hecklers by putting on a show of sweet reasonableness. After getting a cool reception at a meeting in Scotland, Macmillan wished the hecklers luck. That brought the rest of the audience firmly to the conservative leader's side.

Gaitskell usually plows right through heckling without appearing to notice it. Bevan has so many stinging answers on the tip of his tongue he sometimes makes a heckler wish he could fall through the floor.

The defense minister, Duncan Sandys, has his own answer. Recently a chorus of boos greeted him as he rose to address a meeting. He calmly walked over to the microphone and boomed back.

Week Long Oxygen Strike Ends in England

London — A week-old unofficial strike by 1,700 workers at 20 depots of British Oxygen limited ended today, an official of the transport and general workers' union announced.

The wildcat walkout caused widespread unemployment in other industries as stocks of oxygen for welding and similar processes dried up. More than 60,000 workers were laid off as a direct result of the strike.

Earlier the strikers defied their union and the employers' demands to return to work. They said they would go back only on condition negotiations were reopened immediately on their claim for "a substantial pay increase. Negotiations were recessed Sept. 15 until Oct. 20. But the employers said any increase agreed then would be retroactive to Sept. 21. The men decided to go back to work Tuesday.

Rep. Byrnes Reports

As has been his custom for many years, Rep. John W. Byrnes of the Eighth-Congressional District of Wisconsin, has issued a report on his voting and attendance record for the first session of the 86th Congress. The report includes all roll call votes and all quorum calls. Where Rep. Byrnes was absent for a roll call vote he so indicates and states how he would have voted if he had been present.

Everyone familiar with political campaigns knows the incumbent candidate must defend his record. To attack that record it is often necessary for the opposing candidate to spend many hours searching for weaknesses. People are best prepared to judge the attacks and the defense if they are familiar with the record in advance. Those citizens of the Eighth District who are interested in preparing themselves for the upcoming elections may have copies of the Byrnes record upon request.

One of the strong points in Mr. Byrnes' method of campaigning in the past has been his absolute frankness with the voters. Those wishing to attack him must attack a record which already is known to the voters who are sufficiently interested to read about it. Any congressman who keeps his record clear and his public fully informed upon his activities has a big advantage. There can be no surprises, no sudden "revelations" to be explained away by an embarrassed incumbent and thus the campaign usually is confined to the important issues.

In his letter to the people of his district this week, Rep. Byrnes points out that the Republican minority in congress was able to hold down spending but that there is to be another session of the 86th Congress with the same members and the same ambition to spend next year. Thus he says that while the spending bills were held up many of them will remain alive and may be adopted during the second session of this congress. Whether or not the Republican minority will be able to continue to hold down on the spending and support the president in his fight against inflation will depend, Rep. Byrnes says, upon whether or not the people opposed to spending make their wishes known to their congressmen in plain terms. Rep. Byrnes believes the people of this country can get any kind of legislation they wish. But he warns that any slackening of interest by the public in responsible government will be a signal for the spenders and socializers to renew their efforts to sell the people "pie-in-the-sky" easy money bills.

Investigate Tibet

In the glow of soothed feelings and raised hopes for better world relations following Khrushchev's visit to the United States, the insistence of the Irish and Malayan delegates to the United Nations for a full scale investigation of red rule in Tibet is embarrassing. A lot of delegates, apparently, now have hopes that if communism and its aggression aren't mentioned they might just quietly go away.

Of course every generation has to begin somewhat from scratch in efforts for world peace and better living conditions. Obviously we can not go back and return the southwest to the Apaches and Comanches or hand over Texas to Mexico. But letting bygones be bygones is a weak policy particularly when it can be exploited so greatly by the red propagandists.

Arguments against a U. N. investigation in Tibet range all the way from insistence that Tibet, after all, is part of China and the Peiping government is in force, to voiced hopes there are signs of an easing of East-West tensions and the U. N. mustn't do anything to stir up a controversy. The first argument has some merit although such an admission would open the moral door to capture of Formosa by the reds as well. The latter argument reflects the point of view of a sizeable number of people that peace at any price is better than the risk of a nuclear war. But sleeping dogs wake up and are even hungrier than before.

The United Nations came into being to maintain both peace and justice. The attack and smile technique has been used by the communists ever since the end of World War II. There is no sign whatsoever that any real changes are in sight.

An investigation of the Tibetan situation probably would have to take place from without since the Red Chinese would not permit a team to enter. Whatever the findings, they could not be backed with anything stronger than a General Assembly resolution. But, since Red China continues to ask for admittance to the U. N., such information would be pertinent to confront such as India's Krishna Menon who still pleads the cause of recognition.

The U. N. is impotent as far as force is concerned except for the relative success of its emergency force still patrolling the Gaza strip. Its strength today, therefore, lies in objectivity and investigations of touchy spots so all peoples can know the facts. If that avenue is removed so as not to ruffle the feelings of world aggressors, the U. N. might as well disband tomorrow.

Income Tax Returns for 1957

About 60 million individual income tax returns were filed with the federal government for the income year 1957. The gross income, earned and unearned, received by these individuals during that year was $280 billion. This was an all time high. Salaries and wages reported, totaled $228 billion, while dividends and interest received reached $12.4 billion. The number of persons reporting gross incomes of $5,000 or more reached 19.6 million in 1957 as compared with 17.7 million in 1956.

The individual income tax is the largest single source of revenue for the United States government. In 1957 it reached $34.4 billion which was the highest ever tabulated in a single year. These facts are reported in Statistics of Income, 1957, Individual Income Tax Returns, the publication of the Internal Revenue Service which is expected to be available about Oct. 15. Those interested may have this annual financial census for 75c. It should be ordered from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C. The figures in this publication relate to all persons under 65 years of age with a gross income of $600 or more and persons 65 or over with a gross income of $1,200 or more, and self employed persons regardless of age with self employment tax of $400 or more.

Elections in Guatemala Will Measure Red Strength

All Latin America is watching the political campaign in Guatemala which culminates in December national congressional elections.

The balloting will provide a measure of the strength of stepped-up communist drivers in Central and South America.

Half of the 66 congressional seats are at stake and left-wing groups are vigorously out to win most of them. They expect to gain from 10 to 20 seats in the legislative body now in firm control of the Conservatives.

Under President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman in 1954, communists infiltrated the Guatemalan government. It became, in effect, the first communist-dominated regime in the hemisphere. But Arbenz was toppled in a revolt led by Carlos Castillo Armas and the red foothold was wiped out.

Recent leftist gains have alarmed the nation. Dr. Luis F. Galich, a moderate leftist, was elected mayor of Guatemala City. It was the second time he had been chosen, a previous election being annulled on a technicality by the electoral tribunal, controlled by the right wing.

Conservatives in congress have warned that unless the supporters of President Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes unite on a program of social and labor legislation, the reds spend a lot of time." This was, as it happens, in the context of what he would like to do when his tenure at the White House ends, but there seems no insurmountable reason why even earlier traveling should not be both satisfying and useful.

Mr. Eisenhower's recent trip to Europe, for example, not only served official purposes well but provided the impression that there was a mutual exhilaration — to the president himself and to the multitudes who welcomed him enthusiastically. If there was an air that he was on a new crusade — one in the interests of peace and of friendship — in Europe, it would undoubtedly seem likewise in the countries of Asia and the Pacific ocean. As for the problem of what friendly countries he could not fit into such a tour, there might be some comfort at least in the fact there would still be places left to visit when he undertakes his post-presidential travels.

Far Eastern Tour Aid to Eisenhower

From The Washington, D. C., Evening Star

There is much merit, even if attended by certain problems, in the possibility that President Eisenhower might extend his expected trip to the Soviet Union later this year to visit India and perhaps other countries in the Far East-Pacific area.

He has, first of all, expressed a desire to travel in that part of the world — to revisit places already known to him and to see others which he has never yet visited. He talked of this "wanderlust" at a recent news conference and mentioned the Indian ocean area as one where he would "love to

Khrushchev Visit May be Prelude To Theatrical Peace Movement

From The Pensacola, Fla., Journal

Despite knowledge of the ruthless past of Nikita Khrushchev in his rise to power through doing the bid of Stalin and his own bloody crushing of the Hungarian people, Americans cannot but feel a mite of appreciation for the man in an unfriendly country who has the courage to cast off restraint and to mix with the people free from "house arrest," as he put it.

That restraint, of course, has been for his own protection. If something happened to the Soviet premier in this country, it could bring disastrous consequences.

Yet our people traveling in Russia have fretted, too, at the restraints imposed upon them. Some may have been to hide Russia's shortcomings, but some, too, were doubtless to protect an alien in an unfriendly land where capitalists have been so exorciated.

The grudging admiration for the man, ignoring his record, is a very real danger which we do not want to get out of hand. We must continually remind ourselves of his fundamental objective.

Yet, too, as Sec. Herter is said to think, there may be a chance that Khrushchev really wants to shift his armament funds into production which will raise Russian living standards. He has done more toward this goal than any predecessor and he has abandoned purges for what is more like exile for those who have opposed him.

As the British contend, Khrushchev's proposal for complete disarmament must be considered long and seriously. Some gains may be possible. But we must never lose sight of the declared purpose of the Soviet leaders.

We had Hitler's objectives before us in his book Mein Kampf, but disregarded them as silly dreams. We must not be caught napping again.

In this vein, it is well to read what Hy Gardner, New York Herald Tribune columnist, pointed out recently in what he called a post-script to J. Edgar Hoover's book, "Masters of Deceit." Gardner said:

Further underscoring J. Edgar Hoover's repeated warnings of the danger of communism is a statement made in 1931 by Prof. Manuilsky, then head of the Moscow War college: "A final struggle between communism and capitalism is unavoidable. To be sure we are not strong enough today to attack. Our moment will come in 20 to 30 years. We will begin by starting the most theatrical peace movement that ever existed."

Has Khrushchev merely launched that "theatrical peace movement" trap? We know such Red movements in the past have meant nothing in reaching a real peace or in easing old problems.

All Senate Chamber Desks Carved With Historic Line

From Capitol Casseroles By Mrs. Ellen Proxmire

All desks in the senate chamber are of a design originated in 1819. Forty-seven of the original 48 desks built after the capitol was burned by the British are still in use. For instance, the name Daniel Webster is clearly carved on the inside of the desk now used by Sen. Styles Bridges. The workmanship and skill that went into the construction of these desks is truly fascinating to contemplate. There is wooden inlay in the sides, a portable desk top on each, sand bottles which were used before the days of blotters and hand-carved feet. The desks just built for the two new senators were made by hand notwithstanding this age of machines and assembly lines.

We discovered recently that Bill's desk (Sen. Proxmire's) has a history too. Clearly carved on the inside are the names of Charles A. Culberson who served from Texas in 1899, Hugo Black of Alabama, who is now a supreme court justice, Matthew Neely of West Virginia who served until his death last year, and Sen. Herbert Lehman of New York. Sen. Wiley's desk was also used by Robert LaFollette, Jr., and George Norris of Nebraska. Sen. Dirksen has the senior Sen. La Follette's desk. Seeing these old-fashioned pieces of furniture that have survived so much time, the weight of so many books, and so much history makes one stop and think about those who have come and gone. In many instances only the carved letters remain as mementos of the public servant's life, while in others the carved letters serve as reminders of monumental accomplishment.

Our worthy mayor is doing his full share in providing for the influx of population by erecting a number of small dwellings in the Third Ward.

They are at a rental mechanics can afford and the dwellings are engaged as fast as completed. In many cases they are engaged as soon as they are commenced.

The mayor has inaugurated a matter well worthy the initiative example of other real estate proprietors. Fully 50 more dwellings could be rented this fall.

Motor Vehicle Head Impresses at Hearing

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — Gov. Nelson's new budget hearings are fairly thin and perfunctory, with respect to their development of the facts and figures on the performance and the aspirations of the numerous agencies that have paraded before him.

To a considerable extent, the onlooker can guess, they are being held to comply with the literal mandate of the law. The actual budget-making is done elsewhere, in private conferences, as the participants come pretty close to conceding now and again.

But the process is a useful one, nevertheless, if only because it permits the interested outsider to get acquainted with some of the principal administrators in the state service whose personalities, abilities and pretensions cannot be so precisely measured or observed in the ordinary routine of their tasks. The man who knows his department and what it is doing is instantly distinguishable from the pretender who permits his underlings to prepare his budget, and perhaps most of the other basic jobs that are his own responsibility.

KARNS

The other day, for example, young James Karns, the motor vehicle commissioner, turned up to talk with Nelson at a budget hearing about his department and how it is functioning, what it is costing, and what it wants to do that it is not now doing.

The capitol knew very little about Karns when the governor elevated him from a traffic patrol desk in one of his first major appointments.

Culberson who served from Texas in 1899, Hugo Black of Alabama, who is now a supreme court justice, Matthew Neely of West Virginia who served until his death last year, and Sen. Herbert Lehman of New York. Sen. Wiley's desk was also used by Robert LaFollette, Jr., and George Norris of Nebraska. Sen. Dirksen has the senior Sen. La Follette's desk.

Seeing these old-fashioned pieces of furniture that have survived so much time, the weight of so many books, and so much history makes one stop and think about those who have come and gone. In many instances only the carved letters remain as mementos of the public servant's life, while in others the carved letters serve as reminders of monumental accomplishment.

ments early last winter, and in the process surprised or disappointed, according to their perspective, a good many persons who thought such patronage should go and would go exclusively to card-carrying veterans of the Democratic campaign.

The hearing, brief as it was, showed pretty quickly and clearly that here is a young man who knows exactly what he is doing and knows how to explain it.

The airplane item in his budget might illustrate. The department has been talking about an airplane for several years. Nobody paid any serious attention. Always the agency managed to make it sound like an example of typical bureaucratic appetite. This time Karns got an attentive audience, and it would not be especially surprising if the new budget provides his airplane, in what he proposes as an experiment in beefing up the state highway safety program.

It could not have been easy for him to concede that there are violators on the roads today who are too clever to be apprehended by his men, including some of the truck drivers about whom this column has remarked. In spite of proof that there has been considerable bearing down lately, there is room for more effective work, and an airplane above to spot violators anonymously for the patrol cars on the road is one of the methods he has concluded can be used profitably.

THE PROBLEM

There was material for reflection also in the complaint of the well-spoken Bruce Bishop, one of the ranking officers of the patrol, about the curious twists of public opinion on auto law enforcement.

The radar equipment must be in plain sight, so that the first person who detects it can send out the warnings immediately.

There is a keen resentment against the use of unmarked patrol cars, as shown by a fairly vigorous attempt in the last legislature to make such practices illegal, the officer recalled.

It is a good deal like belling the cat, Bishop observed to the governor.

These are curious prejudices of the public, it may be conceded, since the whole purpose of enforcement is to protect life and property. But they are real, and it is a mark of the intelligence and realism of these young men in charge of this major state service and enforcement agency that they recognize them and speak about them candidly when they have a chance to address the policy-makers who may help them in providing better arrangements.

Short Nap, Walk May Prevent Accident Caused by Dozing

From The Windsor Ontario Star

There are few statistics to prove it, but police believe many bad accidents are caused by the drivers of cars dozing for a few seconds while they are driving.

These are tragedies that could often be prevented.

As soon as a driver begins to feel drowsy, he should pull off the road, turn off the switch and take a few minutes nap. It is a good idea, too, to get out of the car and walk around for a few minutes.

"Concrete streets certainly added to the safety of our neighborhood!"
Peace-of-mind goes with concrete pavement! Its grainy surface assures safe, sure stops—gives you dependable skid resistance—even in wet weather. It stays smooth and level, too. There are no potholes to cause dangerous swerves. You're always in control of your car.
And because clean-colored concrete reflects light four times more than any dark surface, you can see and be seen far better at night—a real comfort, driving or walking.
Yet with all this built-in safety, modern concrete offers moderate first-cost and continued low maintenance. Reasons enough to make it the preferred pavement for residential streets everywhere.

announced, for example, that the "apparatus carried by the third Soviet space rocket" would be "switched on" for two hours today (6 a.m. to 8 a.m. CST).
They predicted that the station—the third Soviet cosmic rocket shot aimed at the moon—would stay aloft for a long time because it will approach no closer than 2,000 kilometers (1,240 miles) to the earth.
The flying station was reported loaded with scientific equipment but the official announcements gave no details on it.
Power From Sun
Y. K. Fedorov, member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, said, "the tremendous amount of data gathered by the many measuring devices is being regularly transmitted back to earth."
An announcement said the satellite can broadcast two to four hours a day, drawing its power from solar batteries which the sun's ray recharge.
Just what do the Russians hope to learn?
Soviet Physicist Lev Ponayeton of Leningrad said data from the unseen side of the moon will help to determine its shape and distribution of mass. He said this would be of tremendous help in manned space flights.
Felix Zigel, scientific commentator for Moscow radio, said the projectile will not make an extensive study of the moon. This will be done later, he said, from a rocket timed to orbit around the moon.
The original announcement said the space station is on a course that should take it around the moon at a distance of about 10,000 kilometers (about 6,200 miles).
Prof. Harrie S. Massey, chairman of the British National Committee for Space Research, said the Russians "certainly will be making a systematic study of the radiation belt in outer space re-

Flynn Blames Nixon for Halt At Air Base

Air Force Cancels Construction Work At Bong Field
Racine — Rep. Gerald Flynn (D-Wis.) has blamed Vice President Richard Nixon and three Wisconsin Republican congressmen for the Air Force's cancellation of construction of the $33,464,000 Richard I. Bong jet bomber base in Racine and Kenosha counties.
Flynn also charged Saturday that the air force "acted outside and in excess of its authority" in stopping construction because Congress had appropriated $80 million for the project. He called it a veto of an act of Congress.
Present Views Late
Reps. Melvin Laird, William Van Pelt and John Byrnes, said Flynn, waited until congress adjourned and then got Rep. Charles Halleck (R-Ind), minority floor leader, to present their views to Nixon. Flynn said that Nixon then went to President Eisenhower. He also reiterated earlier charges that air lines operating in the area had gotten the Wisconsin representatives to oppose construction of the base.
Flynn said that the air force had already spent or has committed itself to spend $30 to $40 million on the base. "The expenditure of this revision until you get public support for revision and you aren't going to get public support until you have some discussion," Nelson said.

Considers Withholding
He added he was not ready to state what measures for new revenue would be proposed to the fall session. But he indicated there might be a new effort for a withholding system for state income taxes, a plan killed in the Republican-controlled senate this summer.
Nelson said he would not regard an anti-sales tax resolution at the November state Democratic convention as putting his administration on the spot. The governor's position toward democrats who oppose a sales tax is that the report on tax revision should be awaited.
"I'll probably speak to the convention and restate what I have said is the need for a basic revision and let the convention take whatever action it sees fit," Nelson said.

Nelson made it plain he didn't want to be drawn into a discussion on the sales tax controversy in his party.
Health Budget Cut
He offered state board of health requests as an example of the type of cutting he did to get requests for $12 million for the second year down to $6 million.
He said the board needed three new buses for its program of taking chest X-rays. For 1960 Nelson said he could propose only one new bus.
Nelson also indicated he will veto a bill to increase truck gross weight allowances to 74,000 pounds because of the view of Ellis Armstrong, U. S. commissioner of public roads, that this weight would violate federal maximums, ruling out federal aid for new interstate highway construction. Nelson said he would confer with the attorney general before announcing a decision.
University Salaries
The governor said almost all agencies had been affected by the cutbacks, but that additional sums asked by the state university and colleges for salary increases had not been reduced.
The university and college requests totaled about $3 million, most of it to cover salary hikes.
Nelson promised teachers a 20 per cent pay increase during the biennium. The legislature approved 8 per cent of it in the last session, he said, "and I'm going to stick to my promise on the other 12 per cent."

Rathbone Switches From God to Devil Role in Play, 'J.B.'

New York — Not every actor can play God — then turn around and play the devil in the same play.

Basil Rathbone is making the big switch in the Broadway production of "J.B." For the last four months the actor has portrayed Mr. Zuss, symbolizing God in the play. Next week he takes over the role of Nickles, who symbolizes the devil, and will go on a 5-month national tour in the part.

Rathbone said he has been rehearsing Nickles by day and playing Mr. Zuss at night. "A little Nickles has been creeping into my Zuss lately," said Rathbone.

Steve Parker Gets Success in Japan

Shirley MacLaine's Husband Says He Was Second-Class Citizen in United States

BY BOB THOMAS

Hollywood — (U) — Steve Parker, husband of Shirley MacLaine, tells why he left Hollywood to become a producer in Japan:

"I felt I was a second-class citizen here. I was beginning to be called 'Mr. MacLaine.' It was a situation I couldn't accept, so I left. Shirley understood, and she let me go."

Steve went to Japan three years ago with little more than a brief case and high hopes. Today, his hopes have borne fruit and he is one of show business' success stories.

He has had two loves in his life: Shirley and Japan. His romance with the latter began in 1936, when his father was assigned as a General Electric engineer to help build a Japanese Hydro-electric project. The family stayed three years. Steve recalls the hostility to foreigners in those pre-war times, but he still made some fast friends.

"They live more sensibly over there," he remarked. "They get as much done as we do, but they don't get ulcers doing it."

He returned briefly after the war with the occupation forces, later made a survey of the Asian theater as part of a team for ANTA (American National Theater and Academy). And he went back again when Shirley was making "Around the World in 80 Days" for Mike Todd.

"I recognized that Japan was a great untapped field of entertainment," he said. "I thought perhaps I could find something to do there. I had tried acting, but I guess I was pretty lousy at it. I felt that my future lay in directing and producing."

Steve did a lot of talking and persuaded the government to sponsor a documentary film he proposed to make. It was a prize-winner and Steve managed so efficiently that he had enough budget left over for another film. That was "Geisha," which won even more honors.

Las Vegas, Troupe

NBC signed him to bring over a troupe of Japanese performers for a TV spectacular. It was such a hit that he's due to bring two more shows over this season, including one from other parts of Asia. This summer, he imported to Las Vegas a show called "Holiday in Japan."

Parker's other plans: A possible Broadway run of "Holiday in Japan," an all-Japanese film now shooting in Tokyo; a film "My Geisha" to star Shirley and Dean Martin next year; purchase of a studio in Tokyo. "I've got 43 people working for me in Tokyo," he remarked. "Now I've opened offices in Hong Kong and Bangkok to scout talent throughout Asia. There's plenty, but you have to look for it."

Rockwell Has Reason to Dislike Reruns

New York — (U) — Robert Rockwell is a performer who dislikes reruns and repeats. It has taken him almost three years to act his way out of one television role which threatened to typecast him permanently.

Rockwell was cast as shy, naive Mr. Boynton for the first season of Eve Arden's "Our Miss Brooks" series. He proved such a good foil for Miss Arden's antics that when the show's story line was changed the next year, the producers called him back in an effort to build the program back to its former popularity.

In the intervening years those first "Our Miss Brooks" have been playing and re-playing all over the country. "Some places," says Rockwell sadly, "it's on its eighth or ninth rerun."

Gets His Chance

But after that, Rockwell, a Pasadena playhouse alumnus, found that he was considered only for parts which were reasonably exact facsimiles of Mr. Boynton. He plugged away, however, auditioning for and occasionally landing jobs as the heavy in a western. His big chance came after he played Loretta Young's husband in a particularly felicitous comedy last October. Screen Gems, the outfit which produces Miss Young's series, picked him for the title role in "The Man from Blackhawk."

The series starts on ABC Oct. 9, and Rockwell plays an 1870 insurance investigator who travels all over the country tracking down frauds.

"I'm worried about that title," confessed the actor. "Sometimes I think it may mislead people into thinking it's another western. Anyway, I think people will forget about Mr. Boynton — the parts couldn't be less alike."

Resort Purchased

Fremont—Mr. and Mrs. William O'Regan, Chicago, Ill., have purchased the Schumacher resort on the Mill bayou of the Wolf river in the village. The O'Regans operated a farm at Black Creek for two years.

Columnist Reviews 1929 Stock Crash

BY SYLVIA PORTER

It was 30 years ago yesterday that a world began to crash. It was on Oct. 4, 1929, that the stock market went into a wild downward spiral and Wall Street was hit by the first of the series of violent selling attacks which were to culminate in the convulsion of Oct. 29.

Porter

It will be on Oct. 29 that we'll mark the 30th anniversary of Black Tuesday in Wall Street. That was the climactic day during which 16,410,000 shares changed hands, billions of dollars of stock values were wiped out in five hours, millionaires became paupers between breakfast and lunch, the savings of both the sophisticated and the innocent simply disappeared into nothingness. In the history books, "Oct. 29" always will symbolize the end of the gold-plated prosperity of the 1920s, the start of the worst depression ever known to man.

Signals Flashed

But Oct. 29 didn't happen without warning. Actually, the stock market reached its all-time peak on Sept. 3, 1929. After that, it was rocked by successive avalanches of selling — on Oct. 4, Oct. 21, Oct. 23, Oct. 24. With 20-20 hindsight we now know that each of these breaks was flashing the signal that the stock boom was dead and the economic rot beneath the glitter of '29 was about to become obvious.

In contrast to the 10th anniversary of the holocaust in pre-World War II's quiet 1939 and the 20th anniversary in post-World War II's recession 1949, there are some disturbing similarities between 1929 and 1929.

Once again gambling in stocks has reached a new pitch.

Get Rich Schemes

We are seeing nothing approaching the gambling orgy of 1929, of course, but the evidences of fringe speculation, get-rich — quick gambling by the greedy, ignorant, stock market swindles, cannot be shrugged off.

Once again stock prices have been bid up to dizzying heights. As a result the income available on dividends from most stocks at today's prices is less than that available from highest-grade bonds. This upside-down relationship existed in 1929.

In 1929, for instance, a buyer of stocks could obtain, on average, an annual return of 3 1/2 per cent against an average annual return of 4 1/2 per cent on high-grade bonds. In most years since, stock yields have topped bond yields. In mid-summer, though, the return from stocks was down to around 3 per cent, the return from high-grade bonds up to around 4 1/2 per cent. The spread is striking — and chilling.

Stock Price Slumps

Once again, the stock market has been going through some sharp price slumps.

The visit of Soviet Premier Khrushchev was used as an excuse for the most recent drop, but, regardless of excuses, the fact is that between Aug. 31 and Sept. 22 the Dow Jones average of industrial stocks cracked 48 points, the most severe price plunge in two years. Some stocks are down 30 to 50 per cent from their 1928-29 tops.

Once again there is tremendous public interest in stocks; price fluctuations are front-page news, and there is talk of a new era of permanent prosperity. Once again money is tight—the tightest since 1929 and the Federal Reserve serve system is clamping down on credit in an effort to curb the business upswing. Because of the parallels on this anniversary, I've been digging into the story beneath Wall Street's surface. But while I can foresee painful stock price dips, I believe strongly that the differences dwarf the similarities.

To Your Good Health

There's Reason for Taking Medicine as Doctor Orders

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D. My recent essay on why there is good reason for taking medicine "in a half-glass of water" if taken at night rather than in the morning. Reasons that's what the doctor ordered, has brought some further inquiries which I am happy to answer.

Dr. Molner

One is this: "Dear Dr. Molner: I have been a sufferer from heart trouble for some time, and I have been wondering why, since I take digitalis, my doctor said I should take it in the evening. I don't like to ask him, as he has taken excellent care of me, and I don't want to appear to criticize him."

Personally I don't think your doctor would mind if you asked him—that is to say, he wouldn't resent it, although he's as busy as most doctors are, he might begrudge the time to go into an explanation when the important thing is for him to know why, and how, to keep you perking along.

Digitalis in most cases is taken once a day, in tablet form, and in practice it has been noted that it often is more effective, over the long span, if taken at night rather than in the morning. Reasons why? I could guess at a few that seem plausible to me, but in this instance, the real reason is that experience shows that taking it at night has some superior results.

Another inquiry is why it isn't just as good to take a week's supply of medicine every Monday, and let it go at that. I'm still not sure whether I was being kidded, and I suspect that I was, but the simple answer to that is: "Well, why don't you eat 21 meals on Monday and stop eating for the rest of the week." It's just about that simple.

Never Try This And still another question: "If one teaspoonful (or one tablet) makes me feel so much better, why not try two?"

Don't do it! The notion reminds me of a fellow with a muzzle-loading gun who put in the normal amount of powder—and then added 20 per cent more and discovered that the gun would fire a bullet farther. And another 20 per cent, and another 20. And then the gun barrel split. Not all people respond in precisely the same way to a drug or medicine, but they usually come fairly close to a norm. Before any new drug is released for general use, it is tested thousands of times, to ascertain the normal effective dose.

A doctor reads about the scientific studies. He observes himself and knows by the patient's reaction whether a medication should be increased or decreased a bit.

Milk Not Harmful "Dear Sir: Is drinking milk after 45 harmful? Does it hurt adults to drink a quart of milk a day?"—Mrs. J.M."

Two questions. The answers: No. No.

Possible Nerves "Dear Dr. Molner: Can you tell me what is wrong with a 5-year-old boy who keeps blinking his eyes all the time? I had his eyes examined twice and there is nothing wrong with them. Could it be a habit, or is it nerves?"—M.L."

It could be habit. It could be nervous tension—this is not unusual in a tense, nervous child. It could be some irritation, possibly an allergy. Note particularly whether he is blinking continues when he is happily playing, and doesn't know you are watching him.

If he doesn't blink then, you

Poe's Last Journey

BY CLIFFORD DOWDEY

After the death of Edgar Allan Poe in 1849, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Maria Clemm, turned to the sale of romance by trying to convince certain ladies that they were the inspiration for Poe's poems.

But Mrs. Clemm never nerved herself to brace the woman depicted in "Lenore" — Mrs. Elmira Royster Shelton, who was Poe's first sweetheart when he was a boy, and who represented the final haven when he returned to Richmond at the

It was 110 years ago this month that Edgar Allan Poe, America's great literary innovator, walked in torment to his tragic end. The story is told here by a well known historian who has often related the little-known events in the lives of the great.

The Richmond to which he returned just before his death was the scene of the first psychic disasters of his early, formative years. It was just the environment a dramatist would have chosen to highlight the adventures of a sensitive orphan, different from his fellows and yet longing to belong. It was a society of families; the individual was always subordinate — first to the clan, then to the class. And John Allan, who adopted Poe when Poe became an orphan at three, was a coldly ambitious social climber, who accepted this offspring of the theatrical people only to please his childless wife, Frances Allan lavished affection on the sweet-natured child as if Indeed he were his own son, but it was the man of the house Poe had to please, and in this he failed.

Incurred Debts

The adolescent Poe let his heart rule when he supported his foster mother during domestic difficulties arising over Allan's infidelity. Again at 17, the young poet gave the reluctant "Pa" weapons to use against him when he tried to keep up with the planters' sons in Jefferson's new university, and incurred gambling debts.

Cut off from his foster family's support and in local disgrace, 18-year-old Poe joined the army. Two years later, with Mrs. Allan dying, Poe's piteous letters finally caused Allan to facilitate what amounted to his transfer from an enlisted man's status to that of cadet at West Point. When his foredoomed stay in the military academy ended, Allan refused even to answer Poe's letters. Shortly afterwards John Allan died, leaving money to his illegitimate children, and that phase of rejection ended for Poe.

It was during this period that he lost "Lenore." Poe and Elmira Royster had lived near each other in their teens, when they spent the idle afternoons in her parlor with Poe drawing a charming sketch of her while she played the piano-forte and they talked of his poetry. They were secretly engaged when he made his abortive effort at being a college boy. When Elmira Royster's family discovered that Allan had disinherited the dark, dreamy boy, they maneuvered to end the romance. In rebound, Elmira married the well-to-do Mr. Barrett Shelton, and Poe wrote the poem "Lenore."

Poe as Editor

Poe was to live in Richmond only once more, for a year and a half, from the middle of his 26th birthday until around his 28th birthday. He had some literary reputation when he returned to edit the new Southern Literary Messenger, and his experience and ability outran his reputation. He also had a non-Richmond wife, his 14-year-old cousin Virginia Clemm.

Edgar Poe was a good editor. The circulation multiplied under him. But with his ambition goading him, he became the first southerner of talent to begin what became the traditional pilgrimage to New York.

Poe also became the first professional writer in America. Without personal income or sinecure, this frail carrier of literary gifts set out to support his tubercular wife and mother-in-law by what he could earn from published words. To his poetry and stories he added criticisms and literary essays, along with editorial jobs. Much of this writing degenerated into hack work, with its attendant depressions and drains on his limited energies.

Subject of Studies

When he abridged the reality with the bottle, he was accused of depravity in his day, and since then has been the subject of many studies of abnormal behavior as related to genius. With alcohol, he was strictly a spree drinker. Possessing no tolerance at all for it, he underwent a complete personality transformation under the influence; locked demons seemed to escape and rage through his mind.

In the last three years of his life, during the acceleration of his decline, he began to seek an ethereal bosom — a mate of the soul in fleshless passion. After his wife died, this search was broadened to include also the more earthly comfort of a financially well-endowed wife.

It was after his 40th birthday that the last vital energies began to wane and "Lenore" began to beckon as a haven. At this time he was experiencing his final fever of pure creativity, writing

RETIRED MAN BREAKS LAXATIVE DRUG HABIT

If lack of food bulk is causing constipation, do what Albert C. Lehr, Leisure City, Fla., did: "I can hardly remember when I didn't have to take laxatives," he writes. "Several weeks ago I tried Kellogg's All-Brans and since then have discontinued all laxatives. Results are perfect."

There's a simple reason why Kellogg's All-Brans works for millions. It is an appetizing bulk-forming cereal food. A small serving (a half-cup) with milk gives you all the good food bulk you need for daily, natural regularity.

Try Kellogg's All-Brans for 10 days — see if you don't get the relief you want.

among other verse "The Bells" and the finished version of "Annabel Lee." Then while listening receptively to his long-suffering mother-in-law's hints about Mrs. Shelton, he completed the arrangements to edit a financially supported magazine, The Stylus, a dream of his whole life.

Steps at Saloon

Leaving Mrs. Clemm on the last day of June with assurances that their future would be secured, he set out from New York with his skimpily packed, flowered handbag on $50 advanced him for The Stylus. By the time he reached Philadelphia, his aloneness began to depress him and he stepped into a saloon. When he staggered to friends later, he was dangerously ill and delirious. He lost the better part of two weeks and all of his money in that bout. His friends straightened him out enough to proceed the rest of the way and raised the money to pay his fare with a few dollars over.

It was then clear that the cumulative ravages of malnutrition and alcohol had undermined his normally weak constitution to the ultimate breaking point, and a doctor warned him that one more bout would be fatal.

From the time of his recovery in late July, Poe was on his best behavior in every way. The city seemed to have a soothing effect on him, for on this occasion the people acted to make the wanderer — whose melancholy courtliness and growing literary fame made him a romantic figure — feel that Richmond was indeed his home town.

Visits Old Friend

Poe always had the looks for a romantic role. At 40, the prettiness of his childhood had, through the mutations of time, grown into a tragic beauty. His build was slight, and he carried himself well, dressed usually in the conventional black.

Poe had wasted no time in presenting himself to his old girl. As soon as he was fully recovered, he walked to Mrs. Shelton's house one Sunday morning. Meticulously dressed, he climbed the stairs of the "Greek revival" porch and gave his name to a colored servant. In a moment Mrs. Shelton came downstairs and entered the drawing room.

Showing some perturbation, Poe arose and said, "Oh, Elmira, it is you!"

The good woman, giving no signs of being deeply stirred, greeted him graciously, as she would have any old friend, and said something like "I would have recognized you anywhere." Then she told him that she was on her way to church and courteously invited him to call again.

This Poe did, at once. It seems doubtful that between them they generated any charged atmosphere, or that any romantic aura was evoked from the past. Elmira seemed pleased at his attentions, perhaps flattered, for after all she was a somewhat dull lady of position and Poe told her that she was the "lost Lenore" of "The Raven." When he suggested that they marry, Elmira agreed.

Seeks Backing

All the confusions of the tired man then clouded his motivations. Having done nothing to gain subscribers for The Stylus, he approached his fiancée with the idea of her becoming its backer. This frightened her. She immediately arranged her financial affairs so that a husband could get no access to her money. Poe's pride was hurt and they had an angry exchange. Though this contretemps was straightened out, by then "poor Eddie" was drifting into a shadow world.

His announced marriage to Elmira became the solution to all woes. He wrote his mother-in-law that all would be well, for Elmira "loves me more devotedly than anyone I ever knew and I cannot help loving her in return."

However, he wrote again that the one trouble with settling in Richmond was that he would not be near Annie. Mrs. Annie Richmond, the last of Poe's spiritual Isoldes, was a respectable married woman of Lowell, Mass., who understood the platonic nature of Poe's abnormal need to give her love, as he wrote, "so pure — so unworldly."

Poe's 'The Raven' Written About Event in His Life

In this emotional confusion, Poe gave his second lecture at the Exchange Hotel for the purpose of raising funds for a trip to New York, where he would close up the Fordham cottage where he and Mrs. Clemm had lived and bring her to a haven in Richmond. His first lecture, made less than three weeks after he came, had not been well attended. But for the second, Poe drew a large as well as enthusiastic crowd.

The very real support that Richmonds gave him on that late summer night was the biggest social-literary event of his life in his home town. He gave his favorite lecture on "The Poetic Principle," read from "The Raven" in his soft, distinct voice, and was again honored in his own country.

For the next two days he said goodbye to his friends, and there was an aura of finality about the farewells. Late on the last afternoon he called on Elmira. He told her that he did not feel well and she, thinking his pulse feverish, suggested that he put off his early morning trip. He left her with the impression that he would postpone his traveling.

Dying in Torment

Poe dined with friends at a public place. Several members of the restaurant party walked with him to the open-shedded wharf where he boarded the 4 a.m. boat for Baltimore. Later that morning, Mrs. Shelton came up-town to inquire after her sick fiancé. No one else seemed surprised that he had gone. He had left with all his affairs in order, having made his manners to everyone and his last impression was the best he ever made.

From the time he boarded the boat on Sept. 27 until the afternoon of Oct. 3, the poet vanished into his own private torments. Then, in Baltimore, a compositor on the Sun, recognizing a gentleman in bad shape amongst the wrong companions, sent a note to a nearby doctor whom Poe knew and whose name he had managed to mutter along with his own.

Dr. Snodgrass got the derisive man into a hospital, and for four days, until Sunday morning, his slow dying was a concentration of all the agonies with which he had lived for 40 years. When in a final moment of clarity he murmured, "God have mercy on my poor soul," his death epitomized his own lines —

"... unhappy master whom unmerciful Disaster Followed fast and followed faster . . ."

Guards' Use Of Languages Fools Tourists

Capital Police Sometimes Answer Them in Own Tongue

Washington — "I sure shook those tourists up this morning," the handsome young policeman across the street from the White House said.

Washington police treat tourists fine, so explanations were in order.

These tourists, it seems, were Japanese.

"They were really interested and asked a long question, but their accent was so heavy I only got the general meaning," the policeman went on, relishing the suspense in his story.

Well, how did he shake them up?

"I answered in Japanese."

A Japanese-speaking policeman in Washington—this one learned the language in the army — isn't really much more of a curiosity than, say, a baby-delivering policeman elsewhere. After all, the Washington downtown scene normally includes strollers clad in kimonos, saris, turbans or a variety of resplendent uniforms.

A French visitor who wanted to see an exhibit in one of the government buildings was stopped by the Negro guard, who explained the department was closed on Saturday afternoons. The visitor went away, remarking audibly in his own language that something was lacking in American hospitality.

But he turned around quickly when he heard, in flawless Parisian French, "Perhaps, monsieur, an exception could be made . . ."

It was the guard. He made the exception with a flourish and a conducted tour — in French.

Washington's various police and guard forces — metropolitan, capitol, White House, park and others — are federal agencies which recruit from all parts of the country. The system brings in not only an occasional linguist, but all the regional accents and, besides, a real friendliness toward people from the hinterlands.

Such friendliness was tested recently when a tourist dashed up to a policeman near the White House and said "Something I've got to know — what's that tree on the lawn?"

The policeman told him it was a magnolia. The little man went away muttering, "doesn't look like any magnolia I know."

The man in blue wearily straightened his cap.

"Anybody want to wear this and answer the questions?" he inquired.

Escaped Convict Found by Police

Blois, France — French gendarmes today flushed Paul Yadjissi out of a thicket in central France. Thus ended two weeks of haunted liberty for a convict who had apparently spent almost a year burrowing a path to freedom from a prison near Lille.

Yadjissi was first reported missing Sept. 20. Prison officials found a hole outside the wall which led from a sewer draining a cell block courtyard. They estimated it must have taken Yadjissi a year to dig the hole bit by bit on trips to the shower room.

Harried by police and dogs during his brief period of freedom, Yadjissi was found today in woods near Vendome. Yadjissi, 29, was serving a 20-year sentence for shooting a policeman. He had been in prison since 1957.

Circuit Court's Spring Term Concludes Oct. 12

Circuit Judge Andrew W. Parnell will open the last sessions of his court's spring term Monday, Oct. 12, with motions, defaults and other matters set for hearing.

The term of the court will be opened that day, and trials will begin at 11 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 13. Five state and county cases are scheduled and three civil jury trials.

Oral Diabetic Drug Clearly Useful, Experimenter Says

DBI, the newest oral diabetic drug, is clearly valuable in treating all types of diabetes, Dr. Julius Pomeranze, New York, said today.

Dr. Pomeranze, who conducted the first clinical tests of the drug, made his comment in the current Journal of the American Medical Association. He reported the results obtained from 206 diabetics given the drug up to two years.

DBI, or phenethylbiguanide, is one of a group of drugs known as biguanides. It differs in action from other anti-diabetic drugs taken by mouth, which are sulfonylureas.

Needs More Study
Dr. Pomeranze said, "The ultimate place of DBI in the management of diabetes will be determined after much more prolonged and widespread observation."

However, when it is used carefully, adjusting the drug to the patient's needs rather than attempting to fit patients into a rigid dosage pattern, it permits the cessation of insulin therapy in a significant percentage of diabetic patients and is useful, together with insulin, for better control of many patients with more severe cases.

The study showed DBI could be used alone or with a reduced amount of insulin in 62 per cent of the patients regardless of the type of diabetes. The use of other oral drugs is limited to mild or stable cases of diabetes, since they are ineffective against juvenile or "brittle" diabetes.

Some Stopped Insulin
DBI allowed some patients with mild diabetes to stop using insulin altogether and some with more severe cases to cut the amount of insulin used.

Diabetes occurs when the pancreas fails to secrete enough naturally-occurring insulin to burn up all the sugar taken in by the body. Then artificial insulin is necessary.

The oral drugs do not replace insulin, but help the body to better use what insulin it has. Dr. Pomeranze said the sole limitation to the broader use of DBI appears to be its gastrointestinal side effects. Twenty-six per cent of the patients treated had to stop the drug because of gastrointestinal side-effects.

State's CD Progress Survey Ends Talks

Thorough Discussions End as Wisconsin Release Its Plan

BY JACK GLASNER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — A 3-day seminar on civil defense—what it is, what its problems are and where it stands today—concluded here Saturday with a consideration of Wisconsin's progress.

About 100 men and women from the state's municipalities, university and government, along with industry leaders and midwest civil defense personnel, heard nationally-known army officers, federal civil defense experts, scientists, lawyers and laymen dedicated to civil defense. The conference was designed as a thorough investigation of non-military defense and a good deal of homework was sent participants before the meeting. It was not a session for the uninitiated.

The meetings, underwritten by the Carnegie and Johnson Wax foundations, was, in a sense, a part of a national security studies program now operating in several of the leading universities in the U.S. In most universities, the program functions within the political science department, but at the University of Wisconsin, the law school provides the base.

Today, Wisconsin releases its survival plan and several city survival plans, including Green Bay's. This is the plan which was worked out in 1957 and about which the Green Bay Press-Gazette and Appleton Post-Crescent ran an 8-part series last November. The state plan is substantially the same as it was then.

Characterizing Wisconsin's civil defense, Gen. Ralph Olson—the state's CD director—termed it normal government expanded to meet emergency.

This idea, started at the end of the conference, was the basic idea repeated throughout the talk—non-military defense is government's responsibility and it is normal government's responsibility, not the armed services.

Three of the papers read at the meetings were on the preservation of our democratic way of life and government and ways of keeping our governmental system functioning throughout chaos—the aftermath of a nuclear attack.

Although papers were technical, the ideas were not to keep the elected officials in power or appoint or elect men to succeed them, but never-lose sight of the fact that ours is a representative government.

The Wisconsin laws, for example, deal with something never envisioned in the days the constitution was written, so a constitutional amendment is needed to grant the state's chief executive the powers necessary in an emergency. Unless this is done, he must take power under the ambiguous position of commander in chief of the state's militia, which undoubtedly would be federalized and unavailable in an emergency, and which, in short, would be martial law. To prevent any misuse of this power, and in the democratic tradition, the state legislature must extend this emergency or it ends in 60 days.

The 3-day seminar produced no resolutions, no requests, no manifestos. Its leader, Carl P. Runge, assistant dean of the U.W. Law school, termed it a sort of adult education.

The group did indicate several things—non-military defense is vital and a part of total U.S. defense, possibly public apathy is a result of not attracting the opinion-setters in any community to the need for civil defense, and a growing sense of government's responsibility in definite areas, such as requiring fallout protection as a part of building codes.

Woman Killed By Shot Fired Through Window

Seattle —A— While a friend dozed beside her on the davenport and her two small children watched television across the room, Mrs. Betty Lou Lelo, 28, was killed last night by a shot fired through a closed window.

The bullet smashed a 4-inch hole in the window directly behind the davenport and struck Mrs. Lelo in the back of the head.

Ralph Lenz, 32, who had just finished eating and was dozing on the couch, said he was roused by the sound of a shot. "It sounded like more than one," he said.

The shooting occurred in the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Gibson. Gibson was asleep in an adjoining bedroom and his wife was away at the time.

Gibson and Lenz said they ran from the house and hailed a passing motorist, who went inside the apartment to investigate and then called police.

Mrs. Lelo was estranged from her husband, Charles. He was sought for questioning.

Does automobile ownership hurt teenagers' performances in school?

Yes, according to a well-known educator, and what is more, the harm is far greater when combined with a lack of parental control of car usage.

Dr. Keith Kavanaugh, principal of Niles Township High school, Skokie, Ill., verifies the link between the use of the automobile and falling grades through a survey of 1,455 junior and senior students at the school in a northern suburb of Chicago. Conducted by the school's driver education division with the cooperation of the research department of an insurance company, the study is the most comprehensive undertaken on the subject.

In Lowest Quarter The initial results show that students who own cars are more likely to be found in the lowest quarter in the scholastic standings. The 1-r grades drop further when their study time is cut by part-time jobs they must hold to pay for the operation and maintenance of their cars.

While car owners tended to be heavily represented in the lowest quarter of their class, they were almost equally represented in the lowest quarter before they got the car. This would imply these students adopt the car as a diversionary interest. Acquisition of the car would tend to inhibit academic improvement.

The most damaging effect is felt by those who formerly ranked in the top quarter. When they become car owners, 87 per cent of them drop in scholastic performance.

Social Factor Of greater importance than car ownership is the use of the vehicle, Dr. Kavanaugh says. The study showed a direct relationship between a decline in grades and an increase in the number of evenings a week the student drove. Nineteen per cent of those using an automobile one evening a week were in the bottom quarter, while 61 per cent of those driving seven evenings a week were in that category.

"We firmly believe," Dr. Kavanaugh says, "there is a close connection between excessive use of a car and the exercising of parental authority. When driving interferes with study, car ownership or usage becomes harmful."

In addition to time spent with the car in social activities, nearly half of those owning a car found it necessary to obtain part time jobs to meet expenses.

Good Students Work However, if the student did not own a car and his job was on weekends only, he more often than not was in the upper part of his class, Dr. Kavanaugh says. The reverse was true if the job was on week days. In these cases the student was usually in the lower part of his class.

In determining the influence of part-time jobs on class work, the survey made a special effort to determine the influence of the car, excluding other activities. Of the good students who had cars or the use of cars, but did not have part time jobs, 85 per cent suffered a drop in grades after they began to drive.

High school trained drivers have markedly fewer accidents and traffic violations than do students who learn to drive in other ways.

Safer Drivers Of the 72 per cent of the student body which has learned to drive, one out of five were taught in the high school driver training classes. The others were instructed by parents, brothers or sisters and others. The school-trained drivers had 27 accidents per 100 students taught compared to 41 accidents per 100 students who learned in other ways.

Eight per cent of the high school trained drivers had received traffic tickets, while 25 per cent of those taught to drive by parents and others were given tickets.

Tipsy Driving Causes 3 to Lose Licenses

Each Fined $100; Rural Oshkosh Man in Accident

Three men were fined and had their drivers' licenses revoked for a year after arrests for drunken driving.

Melvin N. Berg, 47, Wild Rose, was fined $100 by Justice George Whalen at Waupaca Saturday. Berg was arrested about 9:10 p.m. Friday by Waupaca city police on Churchill street where he was noted driving erratically.

Two men were fined $100 by Judge S. J. Luchsing in municipal court at Oshkosh this morning.

Marvin E. Lyness, 38, route 5, Oshkosh, was arrested at 3:05 p.m. Saturday after the car he was driving was involved in a line of traffic accident at High and Jackson streets in Oshkosh. He tested .19 on the breath-o-lizer.

William E. Gebauer, 18, route 1, Winnebago, was arrested by Winnebago county police on Highway 116 in the Town of Winnebago at 12:15 a.m. Saturday. Police observed him drive erratically and when they turned on a siren his car hit a bridge abutment and went into a ditch. He tested .17.

Captures 16-Year-Old

Appleton police intercepted one youth driving a stolen car and another youth halted his employer's car as two young people stole it this weekend.

James Temmers, 611 N. Douglas street, saw two youths near a car owned by his employer, George Karras, co-owner of Karras Restaurant, 207 N. Appleton street. The car was parked near the restaurant shortly after 6 p.m. Sunday.

Temmers stopped the car at Washington and Appleton streets and the youths fled. Temmers caught one at Washington and Superior streets, and found he had a 16-year-old girl on his hands.

Escapee Found

Taken to the police station, the Menasha girl named her partner, a 15-year-old Appleton youth. After investigating the auto theft, police discovered a chain of behavior which included a 13-year-old girl's overnight trip to Milwaukee with a girl friend and two youths, whose names she did not know. The escapee included beer drinking, police were told.

About three more youths awaited the 15-year-old girl thief and 16-year-old girl friend at a filling station about a block away, police said. The group planned to steal a car and go for a ride, police were told.

A 15-year-old youth, who had been using his sister's imported station wagon with keys he had made, was caught by police as he drove with three companions in the 300 block of N. Linwood drive shortly after the boy stole the car about 7:15 p.m. Saturday.

The boy had used the car before, police were told, although his sister did not know about it.

The youth took the car from the 200 block of W. Washington street after calling to find out if his sister was working. He told police he kept off well-traveled streets to avoid being caught. He was found with a 15-year-old girl, a 16-year-old boy and a 17-year-old boy, all of Appleton, as passengers.

Two Divorces, Annulment Given

Two divorces and an annulment have been granted in municipal court.

La Vaun Reinke, 23, of 533 N. State street, was allowed to resume her maiden name of Thiel after her marriage to Donald Reinke, 29, California address unknown, was annulled on grounds of fraud and misrepresentation in that he was not legally free to marry. The couple was married Sept. 30, 1955, in Waukegan and custody of a minor child was given Mrs. Reinke. Reinke was ordered to pay $15 weekly support.

Adele Schwenderman, 35, of 127 N. Appleton street, was granted a divorce from George Schwenderman, 45, Green Bay, on her grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. A property settlement was made. The couple married May 30, 1953, in Appleton.

Karen W. Ollila, 21, of 819 E. Pacific street, was granted a divorce from William Ollila, 25, route 2, Menasha, on her grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. A property settlement was made. The couple married April 24, 1958, in Appleton.

Navy and Air Force Will Reduce Manpower Quotas Next Year

Washington — The navy and air force plan voluntary manpower cutbacks of about 5,000 each next year so they can spend more money on missiles and equipment.

Asst. Sec. of Defense Charles C. Fincane said the two services had volunteered to reduce their forces, but that the army would not volunteer manpower reductions.

Higher pay and more attractive service programs designed to attract and hold good enlisted men have not been too successful, Fincane said. For example, he said, re-enlistment rates for electronics and technical specialists in the last two years weren't much higher than those for cooks and unskilled military labor.

Fincane said the Pentagon wants the draft to continue indefinitely. He said draft calls of about 6,000 monthly would continue through June, 1961.

Authorized military manpower for the year ending next June 30, totals 2,520,000 force 845,000, navy 630,000 and includes army 870,000, air marine corps 175,000.

St. John Victory Streak Severed

12 to 6 Win by Premontre Nipped
19 Game Record at Little Chute

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Little Chute — Premontre scored twice in the last five minutes for a 12 to 6 victory and severed St. John High's unbeaten string at 19 games here Saturday afternoon.

The Chuters sophomore studded squad gave the heavily manned Cadets all they could handle for three periods. But the bruising defensive battle began to tell on the Dutchmen in the last quarter.

Homecoming Game

A good-sized homecoming crowd saw St. John push on the ground late in the first period. The march carried to the Cadet one where Tom Verhagen went over on the first play of the second period. Ed Hammen's try for the point after was wide.

Premontre was held in check and never got inside the St. John 20 during the first half. In the third period the Cadets penetrated to the 17 once but were stopped.

It was the first loss for a St. John grid team in nearly three years. The last defeat was Oct. 12, 1956, to St. Norbert of DePere, now Abbot Pennings High. The unbeaten string for Coach Bill Fitzpatrick included 16 victories and three ties.

Little Jim Schauer was the star for Premontre as he scored both touchdowns. The speedster set up the first score when he raced 32 yards to the St. John 25. After Vince Lombardi, Jr., picked up 5, a penalty set the ball back on the 25.

Block Conversion

Two passes went astray and on fourth down Schauer took a pass and scampered down the sidelines to tie the game. Jim Breider tried to put the Cadets in front with a conversion but it was blocked by Harley Hietpas.

St. John tried to move on the ground and eat up the remaining 2 minutes but the Cadet defense was too strong. The Chuters were forced to punt and Premontre took over on its own 48.

On the third play, after two passes fizzled, Schauer took a screen pass and followed a wave of blockers the remaining 52 yards for the winning touchdown. Breider's try for the point was wide this time.

St. John had one scoring threat in the making early in the first quarter. Quarterback Mike Bongers, who had a good day passing with 7 for 12, hit Hietpas with an aerial to the Premontre 15. Two tries through the line and two passes netted only 4 yards.

U. S. Force Displayed To Aid Troubled Laos

Also Says New Type Foreign Policy Saved Day, Helped Reds Save Face

BY JOSEPH ALSOP

Washington — "We have our fingers crossed; but it really begins to look as though the other side had decided to call their dogs off."

The foregoing crisp summary of the situation in troubled Laos comes from a high American authority. It also appears cheerfully substantiated by the current news. The Laotian army has retaken large chunks of the territory along the northern border lost at the end of August when additional communist battalions were sent into Laos. Many of the border-crossers appear to have retreated into North Vietnam.

This is a good time, therefore, to tell a remarkable, untold story. In brief, the most likely explanation of the improvement in the situation was a series of moves by the American armed forces in the Pacific. These moves were unannounced to the world. They passed unnoticed in this country. But they were most certainly observed, as they were meant to be, by the watchers in the Kremlin, Peking and Hanoi.

Moment of Truth. "The moment of truth," which produced the president's order for these crucial military movements, occurred Sept. 4. The second invasion of Laos by special infiltration battalions organized, armed and trained in North Vietnam took place Aug. 30. But communications are nonexistent in Laos. Hence word of the new invasion took more than 48 hours to reach the commander of the Laotian army, Gen. Ouane Rathikoune. There was a further delay before the news reached Washington. Time also was needed to assess its significance.

Such were the reasons for the time-gap between the new invasion and "the moment of truth." At that moment, on Sept. 4, orders were sent to the CINCPAC commander, Adm. Harry D. Felt, to place all his forces, ground, air and sea, in a state of immediate readiness, and to dispose the Seventh Fleet for possible action in the defense of Laos.

On Sept. 5 all leaves were being cancelled on Okinawa and elsewhere; and the Seventh Fleet began streaming southwards towards the Gulf of Tonkin. There was no bluff in these moves. It was the settled policy of the U. S. government, agreed between the president and Sec. of State Christian A. Herter, to use force to safeguard the integrity of Laos.

Laos Appealed to U.N. Meanwhile the Laotian government also had appealed to the United Nations. On Sept. 8, the U. N. decided to send observers to investigate the border-crossings. It is widely due to this U. N. action.

On Sept. 5, however, small units of the border-crossing battalions had come within five miles of Samneua, the main Laotian army position in the province most heavily attacked. It then appeared an attack on Samneua town would develop within a day or so. Yet on Sept. 7, Laotian army patrols already were finding signs of a pull-back. In short, the lull in Laos began before the U. N. acted.

Behind this story of the moment of truth and its sequel in the Pacific, there is another long story of the American government's earlier response to the challenge in Laos. It is a story of careful political action, aimed to bring other nations in the South East Asia Treaty organization into line and to get ready for the worst in Laos in other ways.

If the American government had not got ready for the worst, one cannot doubt that the worst would have happened. There are ample communist reserves in North Vietnam to make the worst happen. But the probe in Laos was met with unexpected firmness, on the spot and in Washington. It was therefore suspended. And one can hope that the probe will not be resumed.

Fingers-crossed we can say we have had significant success. Certain points are particularly worth noting. For instance, the unaccustomed quietness of the Seventh Fleet's movement made it much easier for the other side to end the probe in Laos without undue loss of face. The whole episode had new style — a style of calm and silent resolution which may perhaps be called the Herter style. (Copyright, 1959)

Lady Pastor Brews Storm In Denmark

Copenhagen, Denmark—A Lutheran bishop's opposition to woman pastors has kicked up a storm in the provincial town of Swive, bringing a demand today for the government to intervene.

Bishop Christian Baun of Viborg has never given up his opposition to women as pastors although parliament approved ordaining women several weeks ago.

(In the United States, one major Lutheran body, the Synodical conference, does not ordain women ministers, basing its practice on Biblical references. The National Lutheran council, the other major body, has made no official statements on the matter, but there are no NLC women pastors. It is assumed the NLC's eight member synods do not recommend ordaining women. Both groups, however, have women deaconesses, nurses, missionaries and parish workers, some of whom have high administrative positions.)

The priest at Swive, the Rev. P. J. Fiig-Pedersen, said Bishop Baun asked him to request Miss Helga Jensen, assistant priest, to stay away from services Sunday. The bishop was conducting a stone-laying ceremony for a new church.

"I tried to persuade Bishop Baun to withdraw his request," the priest said. "When he refused, I stayed away, as did Miss Jensen."

So did members of the Skive church council, the organist and the choir, leaving the visiting bishop only a few parishioners to preach to. The priest and some church officials also.

The Lutheran church is the established church of Denmark, but its affairs are under the control of nine bishops. However, the government might intervene to try to settle the local dispute; boycotted the stone-laying ceremony.

Sweet Adelines Show Stage Setting, Singing Win Crowd Approval

"Belles are Singing," the first show of the Kimberlaire chapter of Sweet Adelines, Inc., entertained a small but appreciative audience at Menasha High school auditorium Saturday night.

The chapter showed great imagination in a beautiful stage setting, huge bells above and flower arrangements on stage. Costumes of the Kimberlaire chorus and quartets were attractive and colorful while colored lights which played on the performers developed a pleasing and relaxed atmosphere.

The Mid-States Four, Chicago international barbershop harmony champions, as usual captured their audience with some solid barbershop, clowning, jokes, novelty tunes and screwball costumes. Marty Mendro, the lead, said after the show that he was thoroughly tired from laughing so it would appear they had as much fun as the audience.

The women's quartets and Sweet Adeline chorus, directed by Ruth Doell, performed smoothly but, except perhaps for the Happy Harmonizers, Chicago, they lacked the heavier bass and baritone sounds of male quartets.

The Kimlarks, a group of young girls in red and white costumes, joined with the Harmo - Knights of Appleton to sing "The Three Bells," which drew spontaneous applause.

Other groups on the program were The Melodys of Sheboygan, The Choral Belles, Appleton, the Kaukauna Korders, a chorus of the Kaukauna - Little Chute SPEBSQSA chapter and the Four Flats, Kaukauna.

Del Bradford, of the Appleton SPEBSQSA chapter, was master of ceremonies.

Although the show was too long, those in the audience went away knowing they had a pleasant evening of entertainment.

Sew Piece of Patching Cloth Inside Garments

When making a little girl a dress or a small boy a shirt, sew a small piece of the cloth somewhere in an inside seam, such as the side seam so that it will lie flat and be unnoticed when laundered. When the youngsters tear the garment you will have a scrap of cloth for a patch that is the exact shade of material as the garment for it will have been laundered the same number of times.

Your Problems Readers a Superstitious Lot; More Old Wives' Tales Pour in

BY ANN LANDERS

Dear Readers: The mail on superstition continues to pour in. It's too good not to pass on. Here's more:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother told me when I was a small boy never to kill a spider or I would not inherit any money.

One after-Ann Landers noon I was on a picnic with a girl friend and a spider appeared on the supper cloth. "Kill it, Walter," she said. "I wouldn't dare. I won't inherit any money."

She looked at me with astonishment and said, "I didn't know you had any rich relatives! Who are they?"

When I tried to think of one it hit me that nobody in our family had anything to inherit. I killed the spider and, since that day I've ignored superstition.—W.H.

and change things," she would say. Such ignorance made me boil—but I watch my own bragging, just the same.

A few years ago I decided it was time to break the voodoo psychological chains. I bragged to a neighbor about my family's wonderful good health. "The children are never sick," I said. "Their school attendance is perfect."

That same night my two boys came down with the mumps and my daughter got the measles. Coincidence? Of course—but I've never bragged about my good luck since.

Dear Atheist: When you leave this world, as you must, one day, instruct the family not to bury you in good clothes. You'd be all dressed up with no place to go.

DEAR ANN: As you know, show-people are probably the most superstitious lot in the world. My father was a Shakespearean actor who worked with John Barrymore. He, unlike most actors, scoffed at superstition.

Anyone who got a $2 bill brought it to him for a pair of singles. When father died he left me a shoe-box. In it—4,000 $2 bills.—E.H.J.

DEAR ANN: During the war I was engaged to marry a childhood sweetheart. "Don't ever let a post come between us," she would say. "It's bad luck," I told her I didn't believe in such witchery.

One night we were walking down the street and I intentionally walked around a post which separated us. I bumped smack into the cutest WAC I ever saw. I knocked off her hat and her precious bottle of Scotch broke on the sidewalk.

Of course I had to take her phone number to replace the Scotch. Well, Ann I married the girl—and to this day we always separate when we come to a post.—RDF

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Do you have perhaps one little tiny superstition? How about it? — Col. R.E.

Dear Colonel: Well—maybe one little one. My mother told me never to sew on a garment when the person is wearing it, without first putting a piece of thread in that person's mouth. "You'll sew up his brains," she would say with a smile.

To this day I simply can't sew while someone is wearing the garment without putting that piece of thread in his mouth.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for Ann Landers' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing trip on Friday 13th, and I shake salt over my left shoulder like crazy. So—I'm insecure. Who isn't? If it makes me feel that I'm protecting myself against evil spirits by doing these things, why not do them? Some people go to church for the same reason.—The Atheist

Casual Clothes Best for Parties

The trend toward home entertaining is growing by leaps and bounds and so are the styles in elegant at-home clothes for style-conscious hostesses.

For women who like to sew and for those to whom it's simply good economics, entertaining at home this winter can be a really exciting experience, with the array of smart patterns and opulent fabrics available. Long, floating skirts make an evening of bridge a royal pastime and give even a small party the air of a grand ball.

Selecting the right material can transform a mere dress into a gown and a plain Jane hostess into a fashionable attention-getter. Satin, brocade and velvet are in the limelight and bring a note of festivity to any form of entertaining.

A pattern which is easy to make and easy to fit is essential to set off the richness of lavish fabrics and interplay of pattern against the soft pile of velvet, with textures such as flannel or tweed. They are wonderful combinations reserved only for the hostess who wants to look like the glamorous personality she really is.

At the left is an exotic costume with an oriental flair—a 2-piece ensemble made of blue satin brocade with tiny gold flowers. The collar and waistband are solid blue and styling is added by the gold frog interest at the neckline.

An Emerald Green Velveteen top with a wide bateau neck and dropped shoulder line is coupled with blue and green print jersey pants to make a formal, yet casual at-home ensemble. Tailored and sophisticated is this 3-piece costume of a classic white satin shirt, tapered black velvet slacks and an overblouse of black and white tweed. Both the velveteen and tweed are hand washable.

A Long, White Satin skirt topped with a contrasting soft grey flannel sleeveless overblouse are joined in harmony by a band of black satin at the waist. The hostess who really wants to be labeled a gracious entertainer would be wise to select this striking ensemble. Even the mother-to-be can be a glamorous hostess in this jumper top of black velveteen with large patch pockets. The tapered slacks are in black and gold rayon and acetate boucle which look and feel like real wool. Both fabrics are hand washable and the boucle material is resistant to creases.

Our Children

Youngsters Mature Through Experience

BY ANGELO PATRI

"Isn't there ever a time when a parent can stop caring and worrying about children?" a mother close to tears asked in protest against the care and anxiety a teenage child had caused.

The answer based on my experience is "No." And why? Because as long as a parent lives he and she continue to love the children no matter what he does or doesn't do. He cares and worries because he does care.

Then why don't the children care? They do. Each cares according to the stage of his maturity.

A 10-year-old has no understanding of his weight on his parents' mind and heart. How could he have, being without the experiences that bring such knowledge? He climbs, falls, breaks his collar bone. He throws a stone and hits a child on the head. He forgets about the cars on the street and rides his bike into one. He's 10 years old.

Lack Understanding The adolescent gayly takes on an obligation that costs time and money and his parents are dismayed to learn they must meet it. The girl out with a date oversteps her time limit. She has no understanding of how her parents are feeling. How can she when she does not know what the dread things they fear so much exist in her life?

She cannot know until the years teach her and her troubled, fear-filled parents cannot tell her because words do not carry and cannot convey actualities. Time and personal experience that taught the parents, suffering and sorrow that disciplined them, will do the same for their children.

It is that discipline that life imposes on us all, that loving parents long to spare their children. That they cannot do. Each of us must drink his own brew. All any parent can do is to set the children the

Actress Gabor Weds New York Socialite

Las Vegas, Nev. — Actress Eva Gabor has taken as her fourth husband a New York socialite, Richard Brown.

Last April model Venita Radcliffe, who authorities said was despondent over a broken romance with Brown, took her own life by an overdose of sleeping pills. She left a note saying: "Without you there is no meaning."

The Hungarian-born actress and Brown married here Sunday. He described himself as a semi-retired textile manufacturer and gave his age on the marriage license application as 36. Miss Gabor gave hers as 33.

Brown said he and Miss Gabor met nine months ago but that he did not propose until Saturday, 24 hours before they were married.

They will honeymoon in Italy after she completes a television film in Hollywood.

This is Brown's second marriage.

The May-Nor restaurant was the setting for a dinner and reception after the ceremony and after a southern wedding trip the couple will live at 415 S. John street, Kimberly.

The bride is a graduate of Kaukauna High school and attended Carroll college, Waukesha, where she was a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority. She is employed by the Marathon division of the American Can company. Her husband was graduated from Washington High school, New London, and Lawrence college, where he was a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity. He is an accountant at the Aid Association for Lutherans.

Stolen Car Crash Injures Two Youths

13, 15-Year-Olds Smash Station Wagon Into Tree on 96; Older Boy in Serious Condition

A rash of accidents plagued Outagamie county highways this weekend. Heavy traffic and poor driving conditions contributed to the accident toll, police said.

Two youths were hurt, one seriously, about 11 p. m. Sunday night when the 1958 stolen station wagon in which they were riding left Highway 96 just east of Ballard road, traveled about 30 feet and hit a tree at 2281 E. Wisconsin road.

County Patrolman Joseph Vanden Oever said a 13-year-old boy, believed to be the driver, said he and a 15-year-old companion stole the vehicle from Mullen Electric company's parking lot, 2002 E. Wisconsin road, after they found the ignition keys in the wagon.

This 3-Car Pileup Caused a 2-mile, double lane traffic jam shortly after 7 p.m. Sunday on Highway 41, just north and east of the 41-10 interchange. The northbound station wagon at right, driven by Harry Schillerstrom, 26, of 719 Winneconne avenue, Neenah, crossed over the center line, county police said, colliding nearly headon with the southbound car at failure to report an accident after a patrolman found him asleep in his car at College avenue and Durkee street about 7 a.m. Sunday.

The patrolman followed a muddy trail and parts of Owen's car from where it went through the S. Oneida street barricade at McKinley street, dropping about 15 feet through the air over a sharp dropoff, down the S. Oneida hill which is under construction, up E. South River street to the 400 block, where it was turned around and hit a tree before being driven to College and Durkee.

With Park Greenery and Shrubs in the background, four Appleton leaders talk over their impressions of the Kalamazoo, Mich., shopping mall Saturday during their 1-day inspection of malls at Kalamazoo, Mich., and Toledo, Ohio. From left are M. M. Hemmen, Appleton druggist, City Atty. Don L. Jury, Ald. Gerald Wagner and Karl P. Baldwin, Appleton attorney.

Leaders Find Appleton Not Ready for, Doesn't Need Mall

Kalamazoo, Toledo Tours Show City Is in Different Situation

BY JIM NEWCOMB

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Appleton is far from ready to convert any part of College avenue into a pedestrian shopping mall.

In fact, it doesn't need one, and with a little planning by the city government, may never need one.

City and chamber of commerce leaders found this out Saturday in their tours of malls in Kalamazoo, Mich., and Toledo, Ohio.

Appleton isn't ready because mall construction would put off-street parking in short supply and perimeter traffic carriers are not big enough to handle increased traffic flow. The healthy record of retail business and climbing downtown property values here do away with the need.

First, consider the obvious "musts" which Appleton lacks: Ample off-street parking and large volume perimeter carriers.

It may seem contradictory in light of the apparent success of the Kalamazoo and Toledo malls, but Appleton actually has much more adequate off-street parking facilities than these cities.

How then is Appleton's off-street parking situation so bad it would demand remedy before a mall is constructed?

Say that Appleton did install a mall between Oneida and Superior streets on College avenue. Park greenery, fountains, tot lots, benches and a street full of colorful sidewalk would mean the loss of about 120 parking stalls, each worth an estimated $20,000 in business a year.

Replacement Cost

The 120 lost stalls would have to be replaced. Cost of replacement on land somewhere near the mall, using average cost figures of late, would be about $240,000.

Appleton would have to replace those stalls. For, even though Kalamazoo and Toledo are behind Appleton in furnishing off-street parking, neither of them really sacrificed parking in building its

In Kalamazoo, for example, parking was banned on the main street in pre-mall days from 2 to 6 p.m. daily. As one merchant put it: "You might as well have closed the doors. The cars just whistled down that 1-way street."

Lost 8 Stalls

In Toledo, a grand total of only eight parking stalls gave way to mall construction.

Before mall construction, Kalamazoo had few city-owned, off-street parking lots. Now, it has a $550,000 bond issue in the works to alleviate the shortage somewhat. It also has a long-range plan that seemingly will require half the retail area in parking lots by 1980.

Toledo was, and is, in even worse condition for off-street parking. The only city lots are on the downtown fringe, far from the core and the malls. But, as in Kalamazoo, the city is talking in terms of an active program to remedy the shortage.

Parking Problem

Kalamazoo merchants in particular talked almost exclusively of the parking problem. Several of them said they would not have supported the mall idea without a promise of off-street facilities.

Momma, they explained, is on the street in greater numbers these days, and that's good. But what's better is that she's more relaxed. No more clock-watching to keep tabs on parking meter time limits. No more worry about the kiddies, now playing happily in the lot. Momma's more receptive to dawdling over merchandise and listening to sales pitches.

Shoppers Relaxed

Ample off-street parking in downtown Appleton — with maybe a tot lot here and there — ought to create the same shopper attitude here, mall or no, Appleton delegate surmised.

People aren't that different.

Jones park, it was said several times, may well be the natural place for such a combination parking lot and kiddie-land, if a long climb up and down hill can be avoided.

It may well be, said one delegate, that the city ought to form the parking authority which Mayor Mitchell has proposed and order the authority to become extremely active

More Cars Coming

So, the net result of the investigations in Kalamazoo and Toledo is this: The shopper-starved merchants evidently hit on the mall plan as a method of dramatizing their parking shortage.

And, they evidently had their ears tuned to prophets who predict huge new car registration totals in the de-

The startling predictions of car-clogged streets of the future, Appleton delegates seemed to stress, ought to be brought home to the Appleton government. For, while

Appleton has done a fine job of providing off-street parking, the job will never be finished.

In weighing Appleton's perimeter traffic carrier potential, the conditions in Kalamazoo and Toledo probably should be explained first.

In both cities, streets which were converted to malls were narrow—about 66 feet of right-of-way—and already had been designated as 1-way carriers,

Wide Streets

In both cities, mall streets are surrounded by wide thoroughfares, at least in part. Two of the perimeter streets in Kalamazoo, for example, are 4- and 5-lane carriers. In Toledo, the long-range plan calls for routing of through traffic over a projected belt-line along a river bank just off the downtown area.

College avenue is the widest in town. Once more, it leads directly to Highway 41 on the west and soon will lead to the Fox villages by way of the $1 million high level bridge on the east.

Costly Project

The avenue unquestionably could be converted to a better mall than in either Kalamazoo or Toledo because the major retail stores all front on it, but if traffic is taken from it, planners undoubtedly would demand widening of the perimeter carriers to the north and south, opening of the north carrier farther west and construction of a belt-line carrier to remove through travelers from the business core.

It's anybody's guess what that would cost.

Some of Appleton's perimeter carrier problems are in the process of solution.

Plans are drawn for extension of the east-west route

north of College avenue either along Washington, Franklin or North streets.

And, the Barton street plan outlines other innovations, including a bypass belt-line for through travelers between the Twin Cities and points north of the Appleton business core.

It's a matter of coming to grips with the planning and furnishing the necessary money.

Appleton Healthy

The healthy record of Appleton's College avenue retailers and the climbing property values were two key points found missing in Kalamazoo and Toledo.

Kalamazoo leaders said property values in the business district were dropping at the rate of $1 million a year before the mall.

The city's merchants said they are experiencing an up-

Fire Destroys Stable, Damages Shop, Garage

A fire on the James Heenan farm, route 1, Appleton, destroyed a stable and damaged an adjoining garage and workshop but was extinguished before it reached a nearby barn, according to Vincent Baum, chief of the Grand Chute Volunteer Fire department.

Two trucks and a tanker were called out at 4 a. m. The garage and workshop are approximately 12 feet from a large barn, Chief Baum said, but the barn was soaked to prevent the wind from spreading the fire.

Cause of the blaze has not been determined. No animals were in the stable. The buildings were partially covered by insurance.

swing in business ranging from 6 to 40 per cent.

Toledo leaders outlined a similar situation.

Both cities, however, hastened to add it's too early to tell if gains are permanent.

This is in contrast to Appleton where the retailer has an enviable, healthy record and store construction and remodeling projects dotted every avenue block, or are underway.

Draft Report

City Atty. Don L. Jury, Director of Public Works Edwin J. Duszynski, Chamber President Gus A. Zuehlke, John Conway and Walter L. Rugland, all of whom made the trip Saturday, are scheduled to draft a report to the city council and the chamber directors in a Friday morning session at the Conway hotel.

Also making the trip were Fire Chief Paul Neumann, Chief of Police Walter J. Hendricks, Aldermen Alvin E. Tews, Thomas K. Schneider, Gerald Wagner and Roy Pointer, and chamber members Warren S. Gillette, James R. Whitman, Jr., Karl P. Baldwin, Ross E. Williams, M. M. Hemmen, Richard Beelen, Gordon Bubolz, Ralph O. Bohl, Martin Umuth and Giles R. Flanagan.

The trip was made by chartered DC-3 of North Central Airlines.

for determining how much an individual should ideally contribute. The plan is based on an annual income, and the amount donated would be equivalent to giving 30 minutes per month. The total donation would be the money earned in 12 half-hour periods.

Also under the fair share plan, junior executives would contribute one-half of 1 per cent of their annual income, and executives would contribute 1 per cent.

The eight divisions in the fund campaign are:

1. General solicitation department under direction of Mrs. Paul Tepper. This group is divided into four ward groups that will begin door-to-door canvassing Oct. 12. A goal of $18,603 has been set.

2. The pace setting group already is at work organizing employee programs in large businesses. Under direction of J. E. Woody and Roy Rickert, it will begin taking employee contributions today. Donations from the businesses in the companies' names are also included in this section. The goal is $90,000.

3. A finance and insurance group. This division will accept contributions from banks, realty companies and insurance agencies. It is under the direction of John Gall and John Steudel, and has a $15,000 goal.

4. A business-employee group under the direction of Richard Van Sistine. A goal of $6,000 has been set for contributions from food, automobile, and retail businesses and employees.

5. Building trades group. A goal of $6,000 has been set for contributions from contracting businesses and employees. Gerald Hoffman is in charge.

6. A public-civic group that will accept contributions from schools, city and county offices and community organizations. It is under direction of Mayor Clarence A. Mitchell, Mrs. O. E. Moe and Vaughn F. Gehrt. A goal of $8,000 has been set.

7. A diversified business group under direction of Richard Stack. Small businesses in four geographical areas will be contacted. The goal is $7,500.

8. A professional group. Attorneys, physicians, dentists and the clergy will be contacted under the direction of John Barlow. The goal is $7,000.

Many of the divisions already have contacted their potential contributors through letters and contributions by some large businesses already have been accepted.

Chairman

Continued Warm Weather is the forecast for the middle Atlantic states and the Carolinas tonight while warmer temperatures are expected in Ohio, Utah and Arizona. A cooling trend is slated for the upper Great Lakes and the Northern Plains. Showers are expected in the lower Great Lakes, Ohio and Tennessee valley and the northern part of the Pacific coast.

It's Wet, But Ducks Love It

It's wet. It's plenty wet all over.

Some believe duck season started early. It opens Wednesday but heavy rains are much like that soaking, misty-type weather hunters often find on opening day.

Rainfall in the Fox Cities measured .38 of an inch up to 10 a.m. this morning. It is small compared to other Wisconsin and Illinois cities.

Milwaukee and Glenview air base, near Chicago, got 1.1 inches in a 24-hour period.

Motorists moving south after the Packer football game Sunday were hounded by steady rain, mist and the glare of oncoming headlights.

Rain started at the southern extremes early Sunday and continued until midnight.

Heavy rain spread across the central section of the country today and fell again in flood areas of the southwest. It was the sixth consecutive day of rain in sodden Oklahoma. Parts of Texas were inundated.

Politicians Eye Sen. Proxmire's Stumping Tour

His Term Has Five Years to Go, but He's Hard at Work

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — Politicians of both parties are again watching with admiration mixed with envy the perennial stumping of Sen. William Proxmire, the state's junior United States senator.

With the end of the congressional session a fortnight ago, Proxmire hurried back to Wisconsin to travel the countryside each day, the fact that his present term has five years to run notwithstanding.

The senator's itinerary apparently is prepared with the goal of reaching those communities, most of them small and in the upper reaches of Wisconsin, that he did not cover intensively during his many previous campaigns for state - wide office.

The junior senator is acknowledged to be the most energetic campaigner of this state in modern times, admirably by the Democrats, grudgingly by the Republicans.

New Element

He has added a new element to his technique this year by arranging for lectures to small town high schools in most of the localities he visits.

As fellow politicians have promptly recognized, such visits might be designed with an eye to the fact that the 17 or 18 year old high school girl or boy will be an adult, and a voter, when the senator next runs for reelection in 1964.

Meanwhile the senator is carefully avoiding direct contact with the frequent presidential campaign rallies being staged in Wisconsin by his senate seat-mates John Kennedy of Mass. and Hubert Humphrey of Minn. He has avoided making a public comment about his preferences for the presidential nomination, although some of his closest associates have joined the Wisconsin campaign for Kennedy - pledged convention delegates.

Wounds Wife, Shoots Self

Man Angered
Because Sons Ate
Food He Wanted

Atlanta — A father of 10 children, angered because three of his sons ate the food he wanted for breakfast, slightly wounded his wife and then killed himself, police reported.

Detective W. K. Perry said Albert Wiles, 60, was found dead on a sofa at his suburban College Park home yesterday, a shotgun between his knees.

The detective said Wiles, a retired carpenter, killed himself only a few minutes after firing pointblank at his 47-year-old wife. The blast grazed her forehead and missed killing her by half an inch.

Perry gave this account of the end of 32 years of married life:

Mrs. Wiles said her husband got mad because she prepared breakfast for two older sons, Eugene, 27, and Wendell, 25, before serving him. The sons got up early to go to work.

She said she gave her husband breakfast and he went back to bed. Later he got up, went to the ice box to get some milk, and discovered son Larry, 10, had finished the milk.

"He became very mad," Mrs. Wiles was quoted as saying, "because Larry had drunk all the milk. He said he was not going to buy any more groceries because the children had eaten the food he wanted."

Then he threatened a daughter, Jacquelyn, 14, with his walking stick.

When Mrs. Wiles intervened, he shot her on the back porch and then rushed back into the house, apparently thinking he had killed her.

Mrs. Wiles and the children ran to the home of a neighbor. Minutes later neighbors reported hearing a shotgun blast in the Wiles' home.

Detectives said they were told the Wiles had been happily married until recent months when his health failed and he became depressed.

They placed 7 children in institutions. 22 unfortunate girls, who became unmarried mothers, received help for themselves and a proper start for their child. They selected the best homes available for 16 children in adoptive homes. 7 couples made application to adopt children. Children who are permanently separated from their parents are placed in carefully chosen adoptive homes.

Last year 4 Appleton children were placed for adoption. 3 children from other parts of Wisconsin were placed for adoption in Appleton. Service was given to 3 unwed mothers. Their service made it possible to return 2 children to their own parents. In selecting the best home for each child, 7 adoptive home studies were made.

LET'S FACE THE FACTS: This very minute, somewhere in our town, there's a little baby who needs attention. She's sick and needs help. In your neighborhood there's an old woman crying in her loneliness. Her heart aches with a yearning for friendship and "belonging." A bunch of teen-agers roam our streets. Now they're just nice kids. Tomorrow they may be delinquents. Now ask yourself these questions: Will you help? Will you join in with all your neighbors? How much will you give the Community Fund? Don't shrug it off. New Office Building Aids Downtown Look

Professional Arts Structure In Neenah Houses Six Companies

Neenah — The downtown look got a boost with the opening last month of the new Professional Arts building on E. Wisconsin avenue across from the Valley Inn.

Built by Shineen corporation the new 1-story brick and masonry building stands on the site of the former Meyer Burstein and Sons office building which burned several years ago.

The building has been leased by the firm of Robert C. DiRenzo and Jerome T. Bomier, attorneys, who have sublet the remaining offices to other professional firms.

Housed in the building are the DiRenzo and Bomier law firm; Robert C. DiRenzo and company, certified public accountants; F. S. Moseley company, investment bankers; Dr. Gordon Hardie, surgeon; House and Home, real estate sales and construction firm headed by Hal Faverty, and Boettcher and Ginnow, Inc., architects.

Three suites of offices are along each side of the building which is 50 by 60 feet in size. The structure is completely air conditioned and the layout of the offices varies according to each tenant's needs. For example, the DiRenzo and Bomier suite includes an outer office, four offices and a library-conference room.

Paneled Walls The offices are paneled with the finish varying according to the tenant's desires. Strip fluorescent lighting provides the illumination. The ceilings throughout are of acoustical tile.

Each firm has its own telephone system rather than being served through a central switchboard. The Moseley firm has a direct line to its Chicago office to bring the latest stock quotations.

Storage for the tenants is provided in the basement and parking for the tenants only is available at the rear of the building. Occupancy of the building began Sept. 1 with each suite of offices being taken.

General contractor for the building was Charles Gambisky company, Menasha.

POST CRESCENT News of the Twin Cities Neenah - Menasha

Extension Shows Student Increase

175 Enrolled for Current Term; New Center Work on Schedule

Menasha — A 20 per cent enrollment increase over last year has been reported by Verne Imhoff, director of the Menasha University of Wisconsin Extension center.

The center has signed up a total of 175 students in its 2-year class offering. Next year, the present freshmen will be the first sophomores to use the new extension center on Midway road between Menasha and Appleton.

There also are about 200 students in graduate credit classes given by the local extension center.

Imhoff said the larger freshman class may have been because of larger high school graduating classes in June and from those who came in anticipation of having a full two years of classes here.

Work on the new extension center, Imhoff added, is coming along well. Progress has been made on the basement level footings, floors and walls. Imhoff has been assured the nationwide steel strike, now completing its 12th week, will not affect progress, since the steel for the job has been set aside.

Most on List Taken Into MVS Classes

Homemaking Course Demand More Than Expected This Year

Menasha — Almost all women who had been on the waiting list for Menasha adult education homemaking classes have been accommodated, says Miss Leona Bovee, in charge of the program.

Only a few class openings still exist, she added. They are in ceramics, oil and watercolor painting, knitting, general clothing, children's clothing and slipcover and lampshade making. A new class section in clothing will begin Tuesday night. A new class section on children's clothing begins tonight.

The only persons who could not be accommodated in the program were those who had wanted upholstery instruction. Space limitations prevented a new sixth section from being set up.

"We were more than appreciative of the response we got this year," said Miss Bovee.

Registration in the adult homemaking classes will be closed the end of this week, Miss Bovee said. There are about 500 presently signed up.

Members of the Menasha Homemakers club will meet at 8 a.m. Wednesday at Hotel Menasha for a tour of two Oshkosh plants — Victory Lite Candle company and Deltex Rug company. They will lunch at the American Legion

Hairdos Are Wild This Fall

BY VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

"Women want wild hairdos," says hairdresser Nancy Mace of New York, "and that's one reason I had to create the new square-top look."

Wild hairdos obviously make a woman feel more glamorous, in the fashion of Italian girls with whom the hairdo originated, she says. But now they can be wild-coiffed in a ladylike sort of way. Says Nancy:

"The idea behind the square look is tamed wildness. The hairdo is flat at the ears, combed high in the manner of the old pompadour, but cut on simple lines into a wave wing. Variations could include pulling down a lock of hair from this controlled hair if a more carefree hairstyle is desired."

One important impression given by the square look is height, Miss Mace explains, and this helps slenderize and ovalize the face. The hair can show a slight indentation of part and fall away from either side of it. Or the hair can fall over the forehead in bangs that originate well back on the head with a pompadour-type sweep rising behind it. This short hair is blunt-cut and loosely waved without curl.

This fall it's going to be the hair line that counts says Nancy, whose salon caters to the cream of the working girl set. Nancy can tell which way the wind is blowing fashion-wise and when the breeze will change its course just by talking to her customers.

"A hairdresser doesn't really set the styles. She gives the customers what they want but she puts their coiffure desires in a hair pattern that flatters their features, and is becoming to the current dress modes of the moment."

green shade and a tangerine one that's really an eye catcher. Match your nails and that new dress this fall, whether it's pink, yellow or blue.

When you're used to applying just the plain colors, try a frostad polish for an interesting change, either colored or platinum.

Perhaps the newest of the new, the most dashingly different is the rich frosted gold polish which gleams like jewelry. Try the silver too. You'll feel more glamorous and that's just what you'll be!

Squires Throw Incomplete Pass As Game Ends; Brown, Karisny Collect Scores for Victors

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Menasha — Buttes des Morts field — scene of scores of breath-taking finishes through the years, Saturday had its second classic in as many nights as St. Mary held on to edge Abbott Pennings of De Pere 13-7 in a Fox Valley Catholic conference fray.

Whereas the Menasha Bluejays lost to Shawano Friday night on the last play of the game, the result 24 hours later was more joyous for the home forces. But to preserve their victory the Menashans had to halt the determined squires on the 2-yard stripe as the game ended.

St. Mary, in opening defense of its FVCC crown, was forced to come from behind.

Becker Karisny
Pennings scored first and added the conversion. The Zephyrs soon got the touchdown back but missed the PAT and they went ahead for keeps in the third frame.

Pennings about 200 per cent improved over last year, matched the Zephyrs potent

A fourth quarter Zephyr jaunt got to the eight where Pete Snyder's field goal attempt from the 18 was blocked.

There were just four minutes left when the Squires assumed command on their 13. Nine plays and three penalties later they were on the St. Mary 10. All of the plays were on the ground.

Neenah Rotary Entertainment Series Booked

2 Broadway Plays, Ballet Planned for Student Loan Fund

Neenah — Requests for season tickets for the Neenah Rotary club's "Series of Entertainment by Famous Stars" are now being accepted. Proceeds from the shows go to the club's student loan fund, according to S. N. Pickard, chairman.

Requests may be mailed to the Neenah Rotary club at Post Office Box 151 at Neenah. Tickets will be mailed by Oct. 22.

All presentations will be at the Appleton High school auditorium where the Rotary club in the past has staged some of the country's outstanding dramatic productions, some of them prior to their appearance on Broadway where they had very long runs.

The stage facilities and seating capacity of the Appleton Senior High school, enable the presentation of the three programs.

Opening Show

Joan Blondell, well-known for her many years in the movies and also on the stage, will star in the opening production on Thursday night, Oct. 29. She will head the cast of William Inge's "The Dark At the Top of the Stairs" which began its 30-week tour Sept. 21.

"Two For the Seesaw" by William Gibson, which played two years on Broadway, will be the second program and will be staged on Monday night, Nov. 30. Starring in this play will be Hal March who has been in the Broadway play since leaving the quiz show program which brought him into the nation's spotlight.

Offenbach Ballet Jacques Offenbach's music is well-known to many persons from his "Tales of Hoffman" and "Gaitie Parisienne" melodies, some of which has been identified with the French can-can dancing as well as his famous "Barcarolle."

Appearing in his "Voyage to the Moon" ballet will be a cast of Boston and Metropolitan Opera stars support by a chorus, orchestra and ballet. This will be the final program of the series and will be presented Thursday evening, March 16.

Prices for season tickets are $12, $9 and $7.50 on the main floor and $12, $9, $7.50 and $8 in the balcony. Prices are slightly higher than in the past because the cost of bringing the New York casts with full scenic equipment is understandably higher than before.

New Books at Library

Plenty of Laughter Promised In 'Return of Hyman Kaplan'

Menasha — Laughter is one of life's best tonics. Such "vitamins" are in two new books now available at Elisha D. Smith public library.

"The Return of Hyman Kaplan" by Leo Rosten presents a blithe massacre of the tongue as Mr. Kaplan and his colleagues in the American Night Preparatory School for Adults leave a trail of laughter around the world.

Cornelia Otis Skinner, versatile mistress of exaggeration and verbal slapstick presents 12 sketches on the idiosyncrasies of life in "The Ape in Me."

A personal experience of one of the world's great mountains, nature lore and adventure in a journey round the seasons on Mt. Ranier is told in Floyd Schmoer's "A Year in Paradise."

"But With The Dawn, Rejoicing" by Mary Ellen Kelly is the story of a woman and how she made the transition from a normal childhood to a life of complete immobility as the result of rheumatoid arthritis. This is a joyful answer to the why of suffering and is especially recommended to Catholic readers. Librarian Marvin Melick said.

Elspeth Huxley, one of the day's most perspective writers on Africa, tells the captivating story of her childhood in the wilds of Kenya in "The Flame Trees of Thika."

Other new non-fiction books include Robert Carr's "American Democracy in Theory and Practice"; William Strunk, Jr.'s "The Elements of Style," a book for writers; Everett Webber's "Escape to Utopia," the communal movement in America; and the political essays of Milovan Djilas "Anatomy of a Moral."

New fiction includes "Big River, Big Man," by Thomas Duncan, a monumental novel of the Mississippi and of the men and women who conquered the west. A portion of this novel, has a Wisconsin setting. Robert Penn Warrens "The Cave" is a book that is sure to be discussed in literary circles, both pro and con, Melick said.

Lakeshore Drive to be Closed for One Day

Neenah — Lakeshore drive will be closed Tuesday and possibly part of Wednesday for the removal of several dead elm trees by a resident along that street. The work is being done by private contractor but because of the size and location of the trees and the narrowness of the road, it was thought best to close the street to through traffic, Mayor Bell said today.

Dismiss Complaint Of Petty Larceny

Oshkosh — A charge of petty larceny against Vernon Brantmeier, 987 Main street, Neenah, was dismissed today by Municipal Judge S. J. Luchinger after a conference between Brantmeier and the attorney for the complainant, Elmer Schefe. Schefe charged Brantmeier with taking a table and five chairs from a home Brantmeier had rented from Schefe. Brantmeier pleaded innocent when arraigned July 8.

Bowling Pains Liable To Spoil Good Sport

By UPTON X. FURMAN Chiropractor, Neenah

Bowling is one of America's greatest winter recreational activities. It is a good healthful sport. To the beginner, however, bowling is a one-sided exercise as he has not learned to coordinate all of the muscles of his body into the delivery of the ball, and consequently strains muscles and injures ligaments. With this he is liable to misalign the hips or vertebrae which would result in pain and soreness. Sometimes a veteran bowler slips or loses his footing and a like injury can result. These conditions unless attended to can become quite troublesome.

Bowl for health's sake, but don't let "bowling pains" spoil the sport for you this winter. Most cases can be remedied by Chiropractic adjustments.

Green Bay—The Packers set off the aerial bomb at City stadium Sunday afternoon.

And the big explosion blasted the Detroit Lions, 28 to 10, and kept the Packers in a tie first place in the Western division with the San Francisco 49ers.

The Packers and 49ers are now the only undefeated teams in the National Football league. They'll battle it out at City stadium next Sunday for sole possession of the Western division lead and the right to reign for at least one week as the lone unbeaten.

The Packers had the big defensive stick working again and today they're the stingiest point-allowers in the league, having permitted just 16 points, including one touchdown, three field goals and one extra point, in two games. The Bears were beaten, 9-6, a week ago.

Needed Offense

The Bays needed an offensive showing Sunday to take some of the heat off the defense and they utilized two quarters—the first and fourth—to good scoring advantage, getting two touchdowns in each of the periods.

Lamar McHan, playing his second complete game as Packer quarterback, detonated four touchdown passes—a 12-yarder to Gary Knafele and a 4-yard swifter to Don McIlhenny in the first period and perfect strikes of 41 and 36 yards to Max McGee in the fourth.

While the difference was 18 points, the Packers had themselves tangled up in a hair-raiser until the last few six minutes when they scored TD No. 4.

1st Touchdown
The Packers had a 14-0 lead at the close of the first quarter and then promptly went flat offensively. They were able to produce only one first down in the second quarter and one in the third.

The Lions, meanwhile, nicked the Packer defense for its first touchdown in five and a half quarters of football in the first quarter.

Vikes Edge Scots For 2nd Straight Repulse Late Monmouth Threats In Cliff-Hanging 14-8 Win

After putting two victories back-to-back for the first time in three seasons, Lawrence college's football Vikings looked down today from the lofty perch of a third-place tie in the Midwest conference.

The Vikes' latest success was a cliff-hanging 14-8 win over Monmouth college Saturday in Monmouth, Ill. Lawrence next welcomes Beloit for a homecoming contest Saturday.

Lawrence counted a pair of third quarter touchdowns, to break a scoreless tie, and then held on by the finger-nails as Monmouth tallied once and threatened twice more in the final period.

Charlie Scruggs, a 140-

pound senior who has toiled in the background through his two previous seasons, was the Lawrence hero Saturday.

3 Interceptions
Defensive halfback Scruggs intercepted three Joe Suffield passes. Two of the short circuit jobs set up the Viking touchdowns as Lawrence broke a 10-game road losing skein.

Scruggs' first interception was made on the Monmouth 17. Halfback Jim Schulze, Lawrence's top ground-gainer Saturday, gained five yards on three plunges. Then Schulze flipped a 12-yard scoring aerial to end John Dunning.

A passing try for the extra point was incomplete and Lawrence led, 6-0, with 4:58 remaining in the third stanza. Shortly thereafter Scruggs made his third interception of the day and his most sensational. The great grab came

Dick Donovan Is Disappointed About Removal

Long-Awaited Series Chance Ends in Bitter Frustration

BY JACK HAND

Los Angeles — A pitcher always looks forward to the day when he will be starting his first world series game. When you are closing in on 32 and have been playing ball since 1947, like Dick Donovan, you wonder if you ever are going to make it.

Only 65 Pitches

For six innings, Donovan simply was superb. This artful righthander had the Dodgers hammering his low breaking stuff into the coliseum turf, or striking out. In six innings he threw only 65 pitches.

It still was 0-0 when Donovan went out to face the Dodgers for the seventh time.

With one out, Charlie Neal singled off the left field screen for only the second hit and took second when Wally Moon bounced out and a man on second.

Four straight balls to Norm Larker put another Dodger on base. Donovan had walked his first man. Now he was pitching carefully to Gil Hodges.

As soon as Donovan walked Hodges, out came Manager Lopez. And out went Donovan, quickly striding to the bench, trying to hide his bitter disappointment.

"I was disappointed," he admitted. "I still had my stuff. But Lopez makes the moves on this club. He gets more money than I do. That is his business."

It is baseball history now that Carl Furillo followed with a pinch single off Gerry Staley that scored two runs and won the ball game.

The White Sox finally made the World Series and Donovan got his chance. Maybe he'll get another, but that first game will haunt him through the winter nights back home by the fireside in Quincy.

Vike Frosh-Knight Tilt Postponed

The Lawrence college freshman football team's game with the St. Norbert college JV's, slated for 3 p.m. this afternoon at Whiting field, has been postponed.

The contest will be played at 2:30 p.m. next Monday here.

LA Ground Rules Too Difficult for Al

"They're too complicated for me to understand," he said.

Braves Seek 'Name' Manager To Replace Haney at Helm

Fred Resigns To Spend Time With Family

BY JOE REICHLER

Los Angeles — The Milwaukee Braves are seeking a name manager to succeed Fred Haney who resigned Sunday night after leading the club to two pennants and two second-place finishes in four years.

Lou Perini, who disclosed that Haney, 61, had been offered a 1-year contract but had turned it down, said he had no idea who will handle the club in 1960.

He added, however, that the new manager will be a man with experience, reputation and a known ability to handle men.

With Iron Hand
This was interpreted in some quarters that Perini felt his club needed a leader with strong will and an iron hand.

"We will start from the top and work our way down," he said.

"But we won't go down too far," Perini left open the possibility that the job may go to "Birdie" Tebbetts, the club's executive vice president, if the Braves couldn't find their man.

Tebbetts, who managed the Cincinnati Reds before turning to the executive end of the game, said however, he was not a candidate for the job.

The list of candidates was headed, of course, by Leo Durocher, who managed both the Dodgers and Giants to

The 1959 Appleton football Terrors, only remaining unbeaten-untied team in the Fox River Valley conference, culminated by Dave LaViolette's 11-yard scamper, Carl Klueess' 1-foot lunge and Dick Wankey's reception of a 9-yard John Nussbaum pass.

Late in the second quarter, AHS moved 66 yards to the East 6 before running out of time.

The closest to the Appleton goal East ever scrimmaged the ball was the Terror 21 in the third quarter. Nussbaum axed the threat with an end zone interception.

3 AHS Interceptions

In the first half, the Red Devils' deepest penetration was the AHS 37. On a pass play from that spot, Terror John Taylor intercepted 20 yards downfield.

Discovering early that East's aerial attack posed no particular problem (LaViolette also joined Taylor and Nussbaum in the "interception club") the Terrors massed their defensive forces against rushing plays. Except for several moderate gains by quarterback Bill Lamberg, who proved a better runner off the split-T than a passer, AHS kept the situation well in hand.

Up front, Dave Walter, Dick Wankey, Ron Tollefson, Jim Manier, Brian Zordell and Dick Heiss resisted the East charge repeatedly in handing Appleton's Xavier Catholic High school Hawks welcomes the Freedom High Junior varsity at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Goodland field.

The freshman — sophomore Hawks will be seeking their third win in four starts in what may be their last home game of the season. The Hawks have road tilts slated at Wayland academy Saturday morning and at Oshkosh Lourdes on Oct. 15.

The Hawks have beaten Random Lake and the St. Mary of Menasha "B" team and lost to Sevastopol.

Wynn Hurls Crucial 4th Tilt for Sox

BY ED WILKS

Los Angeles — Chicago's go-go White Sox, still running—but running second—turned back to old guy Early Wynn for today's fourth World Series game against the Los Angeles Dodgers, who have a 2-1 edge.

The Dodgers, now 2-1 favorites to win the world championship after taking Sunday's game, 3-1, before a series record crowd of 82,294, are favored at 6-5 for the fourth game behind Roger Craig, the righthander Wynn beat, 11-0 in the opener at Chicago.

Tough Clutch Pitcher

Wynn, who had to leave in the eighth inning of that game when his elbow stiffened, is one of the toughest clutch pitchers in the business. He's the right-hander even New York Yankee Manager Casey Stengel "would have to pitch if I wanted to win one game."

And that's what the Sox need after blowing chances in every inning Sunday against winner Don Drysdale and reliever Larry Sherry, who put away his second straight series save.

Only two clubs—the 1925 Pittsburghs against Washington, and last year's Yankees against Milwaukee—ever have become world champions after losing three of the first four in a 7-game series. That's the task the Sox would face with another loss today.

"I still think we gotta hullaava chance," said Manager Al Lopez. "We've been doing things the hard way all year on this club, and we might as well end it that way."

Lopez shrugged when asked whether he still intends to try go-going in this park. Balls hit off the nearby left field screen plunge frighteningly fast into the fielder's glove. The White Sox, warned that the Dodgers threw out quite a few runners at second here, didn't try for doubles on shots to the screen.

"We didn't run any different yesterday than we always

John Roseboro's Arm Is Big Factor in Series

BY CHARLES MAHER

Los Angeles — The Chicago White Sox may be baseball's finest running team, but right now they're having about as much luck stealing as a pickpocket in a nudist camp.

After three World Series games, the Dodgers lead them in stolen bases three to one.

Three Chicago runners were nailed Sunday at second base, two on attempted steals and one on a play where the runner was off on a 3-2 pitch that the batter missed.

A Mighty Arm
There's probably nothing wrong with the White Sox' running game. Trouble is, there's also nothing wrong with John Roseboro's throwing arm.

Dodger Manager Walt Alston said before the series that Chicago wouldn't be stealing much on Roseboro.

Roseboro couldn't recall whether he'd ever thrown out three men in one game before, but he allowed that Sunday "was about the best day I've ever had."

Jim Rivera, cut down on an attempted steal in the second inning, said Roseboro "has the best arm I've seen in the majors except for Gus Orioles (of the Baltimore Orioles)."

Wisconsin '11' Still Hasn't Revealed Its Full Potential

Madison — Wisconsin opens its Big Ten football season at Purdue Saturday with a promising team that, despite two victories, still hasn't revealed its potential.

Hailed in pre-season balloting as likely to emerge as one of the top clubs in the country, Wisconsin smothered winless Marquette last Saturday, 44-6, with liberal use of reserves.

Wisconsin's 16-14 triumph over Stanford the previous week was played in such foul weather that the Badgers had little chance to display their worth, other than being somewhat susceptible to a strong passing attack.

Had Warriors Figured Marquette, looking good in its opener to Pittsburgh and then foundering in the mud against Detroit, had only a passing threat against Wisconsin.

And Coach Milt Bruhn's squad had the Warriors figured, a beefy line hurrying passer Pete Hall and a secondary which kept his receivers fairly well covered. Marquette gained 85 yards rushing and 182 yards by completing 14 of 30 passes. The Badgers intercepted five throws, one of them for a touchdown by Billy Hobbs on a 22-yard scamper.

Wisconsin gained 101 yards rushing and collected 276 yards in completing 16 of 28 passes with no interceptions. "We were better than last week and our defense was much improved," Bruhn said.

touchdown passes, saying "He's going to improve every week."

Marquette Coach "Liz" Blackburn said Hall "is just used to getting beat here and he threw the ball into the other fellow's arms. It took us three games to find out the boys who want to play, and we'll start going with the young fellows a little more from here on in."

Play at Indiana The Warriors, who play at Indiana this weekend, "made an awful lot of errors," he added.

"If we hadn't helped their cause, I feel the score would have been around 20-6. We were fantastically crude on some of the stuff."

Wisconsin fielded a 7-0 first period margin on Dale Hackbart's plunge from the one and added 15 more points before half time on Hackbart's dash from the four, Karl Holzwarth's 25-yard field goal and Hobbs' 11-yard scamper.

The scoring was identical in later period, seven and 15 points. Erv Kunesch gathered in Bakken's 48-yard toss, Hobbs made his interception and Bakken ran three yards for the final Badger marker.

Facing reserves, Marquette scored late in the game on Jim Schulte's 29-yard throw to Mike Shea.

"No," he said, "I'm not interested in another job. You don't give up a $40,000-a-year job to go looking for another one. Right now, I have nothing in mind except to take a vacation with Mrs. Haney."

Durocher, who recently parted company with NBC after serving in an executive capacity since he quit the Giants in 1955, has expressed a desire to return to baseball. He has insisted, however, on acquiring stock in any club with which he becomes connected.

second quarter, Nick Pietrosante plunging over from two yards out. They made it 14-10 with the longest field goal ever kicked, by Jim Martin in league play—50 yards, in the third quarter.

Thus, the bitter battle awaited a turning point—until Jesse Whittenton recovered Pietrosante's fumble on the Lion 41 and McHan uncorked his scoring pitch to McGee on the first play at 1:40 of the fourth period.

Packer Coach Vince Lombardi was hoping for the big play, the long gain, the quick touchdown and some of each was forthcoming. There were seven plays:

First Quarter: 1—McIlhenny's 36-yard run that became ill-fated when McHan fumbled on the next play on Detroit's 9; 2—McHan's 12-yard TD pass to Knafelec; 3—A 22-yard run by Hornung; 4—McHan's 47-yard pass to McGee; 5—McHan's look-in TD pass to McIlhenny which was set up by Hornung's run and the pass to McGee;

Fourth Quarter: 6—McHan's TD pass to McGee; 7—McHan's 36-yard pass to McGee. McHan had excellent protection, getting dumped for only 10 yards in losses trying to pass. But the Lions were murder, allowing the Bays only 112 yards rushing. McHan and Hornung (with one pass) completed eight out of 17 attempts for 160 yards, with McGee catching three for 124 yards.

The Packers exerted terrific pressure on their onetime teammate, Tobin Rote, who still managed 16 completions in 31 attempts for 158 yards. But the Bays intercepted three of his passes and threw Rote and Earl Morrall for 60 yards in losses trying to pass.

Tobin was injured late in the third quarter when tackled hard by Bill Quinlan and Dan Currie. Morrall played until the last few minutes when Rote finished out.

Bob Freeman made two interceptions and Bobby Dillon one—the first pass steals for the Packers this year in league play. And, there were two recoveries of Lion fumbles—by Whittenton and Bettis.

Giant Rush The key to the Packers' defense was the giant rush put on the Lions' quarterbacks. Two plays before McGee's first TD catch, Bill Forester caught Morrall for a 17-yard loss. On the next play, Whittenton recovered Pietrosante's fumble. Henry Jorden, Dave Hanner and Forester smeared Morrall back 12 yards on the Lion 1-yard line (almost a safety) to set up a punt from deep in the end zone and the Packers' last TD.

The Packers scored their two touchdowns in 13 minutes of the first quarter. On the Bays' first play McIlhenny cut outside his left tackle, with Bob Skoronski making a key block, and hit for his right sideline and a 36-yard gain to the nine where Dave Whitsett applied the brakes.

The Lions grabbed McHan's mumble on the next play but on Rote's second play Freeman intercepted a rollout throw aimed at Cassady. On the 31 and return to the Lion 9. Hornung then lost three but McHan hit Knafelec alone in the end zone for the touchdown. Hornung booted the first of four extra points.

Longest Drive Soon, the Packers put on their longest drive of the game—84 yards in eight plays for a touchdown. McHan hitting McIlhenny in the end zone.

Midway in the second heat, the Lions went 52 yards for a touchdown, by Pietrosante. Wayne converted for a 14-7 count.

The third quarter was a dogfight. Two McGee punts and one by Morrall put the ball on the Packer 37, chiefly on a 27-yard punt return by Barr. The Bays tightened and Martin booted his 50-yard field goal.

McHan's two TD passes to McGee marked the early part of the fourth quarter and in each case Max faked out Barr.

In the final moments Jim Ringo and Nate Borden were injured. Just as he did a week ago, McHan ran out the final few seconds on a quarterback sneak.

Whittenton Recovery Was Turning Point, Lombardi and Wilson Agree

BY LEE REMMEL Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — Rival National Football league coaches seldom find "areas of agreement," for obvious reasons, but the Packers' delighted Vince Lombardi and the Detroit Lions' slightly crestfallen George Wilson were in complete accord on the turning point in Sunday afternoon's transaction at overcast City stadium.

With a deep bow to the rock-ribbed Packer defense, Lombardi, his face still aglow in the wake of a second straight victory, admitted, "Jesse Whittenton's recovery of that fumble early in the fourth quarter was the turning point, no question about it. We scored right after that and took that 21-10 lead. That really made it for us."

Wilson, who earlier had demonstrated he hadn't lost his sense of humor in the gloom of a second straight defeat, agreed. "It was 14-10 when Pietrosante fumbled and, boom, the Packers scored."

Wasn't Sure Though he wasn't inclined to second guess the officials, as he was quick to point out, George wasn't at all sure that the Lions should have lost possession on the play.

"I won't know until I see the pictures, of course," he conceded, "but you don't know if Nick's knee was on the ground. If it had been, the ball should have been dead." Hence, of course, no Packer touchdown.

For Lombardi, this second success was something of a revelation. "We found the answer to one thing we were undecided about," Vince said, "not without a trace of satisfaction. 'I didn't think we had the capability of striking long,' he observed, 'and we did it three times today.'"

"But," the Packers' purposeful head man declared, "the thing that kept us in the game was the defense. If you trace the history of the National Football league, you'll find that most of the time the two teams in the championship game each year are the league's two best defensive teams."

He agreed, in response to a question, that Forester (defensive captain Bill) and Currie (Dan) "did a real fine job of covering Rote on rollouts. Bobby Dillon made some real fine plays, too."

Such a Unit "In fact, it's hard to single out any one player individually," Vince declared. "That defense is such a unit—it was such a team effort."

Lombardi also came away impressed with the Lions' defense. "That was a tough defensive line," he declared, punctuating his comment with a low whistle.

"They have the best four front men I've seen around in Glass, McCord, Mains and Karras," Vince added. "They're very agile, very strong. It's the first time, which covers eight games including our exhibition games, that we've been stopped running."

Exploit Weakness He and his aides did discover, and exploit, a weakness in the Lion secondary, however, he admitted. They channeled their "long ball" efforts to Terry Barr's area, Vince disclosed. He said "It was not because of a weakness in Barr's coverage but a weakness in the defense at that time."

What, he was asked, about quarterback Lamar McHan. "What else can I say but words of praise," Vince replied with a happy grin. "He was great."

Had McHan "converted" often at the line of scrimmage? "Yes, he did," was the answer. "We got fooled a few times when they switched defenses on us but things also worked out well at other times," Vince grinned and added, "it gets to be like a chess game."

Matter of Fact In the boisterous Packer dressing room, even noisier than it had been following last week's kayo of the Bears, Whittenton described his key "grab" matter-of-factly.

"No, I didn't steal it. It just popped out of Pietrosante's hands and everybody was clawing at it. I guess I caught it in the air—I can't even remember." Jesse grinned. "I stole once just before that," the Texas Western ace

Thornton, Fichtner Lost for Season

NU, Purdue Win Games but Lose First-String Quarterbacks

By The Associated Press

Northwestern and Purdue, a pair of powerful contenders for the Big Ten football championship, will have to play the rest of the season without their first-string quarterbacks.

Northwestern lost the services of Dick Thornton in defeating Iowa, 14-10, Saturday, and Purdue's Ross Fichtner was sidelined in a 28-7 triumph over Notre Dame.

Thornton fractured his left ankle on the first play of the Iowa game and Fichtner suffered a shoulder bone fracture in helping Purdue trample the Irish.

Northwestern was fortunate in that it had "Chip" Holcomb in reserve to take over for Thornton and lead the Wildcats to victory. However, Fichtner was instrumental in leading Purdue and how the Boilermakers will fare without him is questionable.

Takes On Badgers Purdue will find out Saturday when it takes on its first Big Ten opponent — undefeated Wisconsin.

Big Ten teams came up with their usual surprises Saturday. Illinois shocked Army, 20-14, and did it with a Ray Eliot version of the lonely end formation. However, Coach Eliot had a man in motion in Johnny Counts and sophomore quarterback Mel Meyers ignored the lonely end and kept hitting Counts with key passes.

Michigan State thundered past Michigan, 34-8, Minnesota gave Indiana a 24-14 lesson and Wisconsin swamped Marquette, 44-6. Ohio State was defeated by Southern Cal, 17-0, Friday night.

With the season only two weeks old, Northwestern and Wisconsin are the Big Ten's teams. Within the conference, Wisconsin, Purdue and Ohio State have not played as yet and only Northwestern, Minnesota and Michigan State have perfect records in league competition.

Aside from the Wisconsin-Purdue battle Saturday's three other conference games are scheduled. Minnesota is at Northwestern, Illinois is at Ohio State and Michigan State is at Iowa. In other games, Oregon State is at Michigan, Marquette is at Indiana and Notre Dame at California.

LSU Plays Miami Just a notch above Northwestern in the top spot in last week's Associated Press poll, Louisiana State tackles Miami this week. This should be soft pickings for the Bengals from the bayou, who knocked off Baylor, 22-0, last time out.

It appears that both LSU and Mississippi, No. 3 team in the country, will be concentrating strictly on their Oct. 31 date during the next three weeks. This could be the showdown battle for the championship of the tough Southeastern conference, and the Sugar bowl bid.

Jim Rivera of the Chicago White Sox takes to the aerial route as he dives into second base on an attempted steal in the second inning of Sunday's World Series game in Los Angeles. Calmly waiting for Rivera is shortstop Maury Wills, holding the throw from catcher John Roseboro. The Dodgers won the game, 3-1, for a 2-1 edge after three games of the Series.

do," said Lopez, whose Sox have stolen just one base in four tries against Dodger catcher John Roseboro. That lone steal came in Sunday's first inning. Jim Landis slid into second without drawing a throw from Roseboro, who was watching Nellie Fox, the runner at third.

The Dodgers are 3-3 in steal attempts against Chicago catcher Sherm Lollar, but didn't try any Sunday. "That Roseboro's okay," said Lopez, "but we got some catchers who can throw in our league, too."

Dodger manager Walt Alston, who before the series compared Roseboro potentially with former great Roy Campanella said "We never had worries about his arm. It was his work as a catcher and hitter that worried us when he had to step in for Campy."

Bounces Over Glove

There was no base-running gimmick involved in Sunday's decisive seventh inning. Blanked on one hit for six, the Dodgers got rid of loser Dick Donovan on Charlie Neal's single and a pair of 2-out walks that loaded the bases. Then they broke the shutout on Carl Furillo's pinch single, off reliever Gerry Staley, that bounced over shortstop Luis Aparicio's glove.

Each team scored a run in the eighth, but some fine relief pitching by young Larry Sherry in the last two innings put the collar on the White Sox.

Sherry, replacing starter Don Drysdale who had been in trouble from the first inning on, struck out the side in the ninth inning.

Donovan had the Dodgers eating out of his hand for six innings. He allowed Los Angeles just one hit—a single by Gil Hodges—and he did not issue a walk.

But he faltered in the seventh after Neal rifled a single off the left field screen. Walks to Larker and Hodges followed and Donovan was pulled out of the game by manager Al Lopez.

That set the stage for Furillo, who pinch hit for Don Demeter.

Get Dozen Hits

The Sox, who waited 40 years to get into a World Series, had a dozen hits—all singles, at least one in every inning—and left 11 men on base. Los Angeles had only five hits, putting only one off the screen while the Sox plunked five into it.

The first series game ever played on the West coast rang up a record $549,071 in receipts at the Coliseum.

The old 1-game attendance record was 86,288, at Cleveland in the Indians' 1948 series against Boston's Braves. The single-game receipts record was $480,085.64 when the swept the series, were at New York Giants, who swept the series, were at Cleveland in 1954.

Third game totals topped the money in the players' pool to $611,096.86. While the players knocked the Coliseum as a ball park, it takes no rap as a concrete cash box.

By matching today's take, $280,026.67, this will be the joint-series pool and the richest series from any angle. The pool now shimmers at $611,096.86. The record, set in 1954's 4-game series, is $881,763.72.

Loras '11' Tames St. Norbert, 13-7

St. Norbert lost an early lead Sunday and dropped its football game with Loras, 13-7, amid a steady rain.

St. Norbert took the kickoff and scored on a 9-yard rollout by quarterback Ron Newhouse of Freedom. Loras tied the count on a 19-yard pass from Gene Winger to Will Molitor and went ahead on a 13-yard loss from John Spinner to Dick Prusha.

Devil runners five losses and chalking up four "no gains." Backers-up Kent Anderson, Marv Hietpas and Wayne Polzin served in fast and hard on the ball carriers. LaViolette and Taylor accorded AHS good protection at safety.

Held to 112 Yards
The Red Devils netted only 112 yards (all on the ground) which represents the best overall AHS defensive showing of the season.

The Terrors, who exceeded the 300-yard mark (313) for the second time this season, again featured an effectively-balanced running attack. For the third straight game, each of the regular backs — Nussbaum, LaViolette, Hietpas and Kluess — averaged better than four yards apiece. LaViolette rang up the top total (92) and Nussbaum the best average (9).

Because of a bus breakdown, AHS got to the field late. But, the Terrors made up for lost time. They scored only four plays and 59 seconds after the opening kickoff.

Nussbaum Goes 45

The key run was a 45-yard "gasser" by Nussbaum on a play that started out to be a dud. The AHS quarterbacking star bumped into a backfield mate on a hand-off situation, kept the ball and swept the East right end. Nussbaum geared into high on short notice and outlegged everyone but Don Sharp who nudged him out of bounds on the Red Devil 15.

After a 4-yard pick-up by Kluess, Nussbaum handed to LaViolette who danced through a truck-wide opening in the line and zoomed home without strain. Wankey, who was to run his conversion record to eight straight, then kicked the first of his three against East.

After getting nowhere fast with attempted razzle-dazzle and "ad-lib" plays, the Terrors reverted to solid football about three minutes into the second quarter and proceeded to cover 76 yards in 13 ground plays. Kluess, who accounted for the last eight yards in three tries, zipped across the goal line from one-foot out.

East outplayed AHS in an uneventful third period and posted a 3-1 edge in first downs.

Eagles Post 49-21 Upset Over Giants

49ers Thump Rams, 34-0, Browns Smash Cardinals 34-7, as NFL Form Sheet Scrambled

BY MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Using the mercurial Tommy McDonald as his chief executioner, Ol' Man Upset has completely scrambled the form sheet in the National Football league's 2-week-old campaign.

The fleet-footed McDonald scored four times Sunday to lead Philadelphia's downtrodden Eagles to a methodical 49-21 demolishing of the Eastern division champion New York Giants in a weekend crammed with upsets.

The 5-foot-10, 180-pound Oklahoma All-America caught passes of 55, 33 and 19 yards for touchdowns and sped 81 yards with a punt return for another TD in his most productive day of a 3-year career. Jimmy Brown got the job done for Cleveland, carrying a near-record 37 times, gaining 147 yards and scoring twice as the Browns whacked the Chicago Cardinals, 34-7. The Cards were last-minute picks as favorites.

No Different
Things were no different in the West, where Chicago's Bears bounced back from an opening game upset to upend NFL champion Baltimore, 26-21, despite three TD passes by Colt quarterback Johnny Unitas.

Green Bay and San Francisco, generally figured to battle for last place in the West, wound up as the only undefeated teams. The Packers whipped Detroit, 28-10, and the 49ers thumped highly-rated Los Angeles, 34-0.

Washington responded to a tongue-lashing from Coach Mike Nixon for a 23-17 triumph over Pittsburgh.

McDonald, who caught six passes in all for 133 yards, began the Eagle romp by taking the first of two touchdowns

Nussbaum and Wankey teamed up for 55 yards in three overhead thrusts. The first completion covered 40 yards, with Wankey hauling it in on the 50 and storming to the 25. The scorer came on a fourth-and-5 play from the East 9. Wankey had no one near him as he caught it in the end zone.

Approximately 1,500 fans watched on an overcast afternoon as AHS exacted precise revenge for last year's 21-0 beating. The win gave Dillon-coached teams an all-time 7-6 edge (with three ties) over traditionally potent East. It also marks the first time the Terrors have won their initial three starts since 1932.

passes from Norm Van Brocklin. Outgained over-all 333 to 299 by the Giants, Philadelphia broke it open with three third-period scores to hand New York its worst defeat since 1953.

Playing in a steady rain, Cleveland emphasized ball control, using Brown effectively while curtailing its passing game. Milt Plum managed to throw TD strikes of 36 yards to Bill Howton and five to Ray Renfro. The Cards scored in the third period on a King Hill 1-yard sneak.

Strong Attack

The 49ers showed a surprisingly strong running attack in handling the Rams—who never got beyond the San Francisco 29—their first shutout since 1949. J. D. Smith scored twice, on a 20-yard gallop and a 1-yard dive. Joe Perry raced 32 yards for a 49er touchdown before Y. A. Tittle closed it out with a 13-yard pitch to Billy Wilson.

The entire Redskin team was fired up by Nixon, who warned 19 players before the Steeler game they would be finished with the Washington club unless they played "for their lives." Substitute quarterback Ralph Guglielmi threw touchdown strikes of 70 and 46 yards to Bill Anderson and Joe Walton, respectively, to turn the tide.

on the Monmouth 35 and Charlie went five more yards before he was brought down. Schulze skirted right end for 20 yards to the Scots' 10. Then Gary Scovel went through the middle for four more. On the next play Schulze circled right end for six yards and the visitors' second TD. He passed to Scovel for the two extra points with 2:08 to go in the stanza.

Monmouth counted with 14:28 to go in the game on a 40-yard pass play from quarterback Joe Suffield to half-back Pete Margetis after taking over on a Lawrence punt—on the Vike 40. Cuffield tossed to end Paul Goff for the 2-point conversion.

Lawrence Holds

With about four minutes to go, the Scots threatened again, driving from their own 45 to the Lawrence 15. There, on fourth down, Schulze intercepted a Suffield toss on the Vike 5. The Vikes couldn't move and punted to mid-field where Monmouth began another march. With a fourth down on the Lawrence 7-yard line and about 45 seconds to go, a Suffield toss to Gary Willman was incomplete. Lawrence ran out the clock.

Monmouth, which outgained Lawrence, 263 total yards to 161, also had penetrated to

Los Angeles — "I still think we have a helluva chance to win this series."

"We'll give 'em all we have."

The first quote quite obviously came today from Manager Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox, now trailing two games to one in the World Series.

Manager Walt Alston authored the second, and that was the set-up today heading into the fourth game of the big money war.

The Dodgers took their 3-1 win Sunday in stride. There

Vike tackle Doug Logan played a particularly hard-hitting game on defense with help from the rest of the Viking defensive line — Doug Millard, Pete Thomas, Dan Brink, Joe Lamers and Dun-nining. Co-Captain Dave Hack-worthy, who had suffered a severe charley horse in practice during the week, went all the way at center and line-backer. Tackle Bill Whitmore, who sprained an ankle Wednesday afternoon, made the trip but didn't get into uniform.

He is expected to be ready for the Beloit game.

Schulze gained 75 yards in 19 carries and Scovel picked up 66 in 18 carries to account for all of the Vike rushing yardage.

Alston, puffing leisurely on a cigaret, described it in tongue-in-cheek fashion as, "another easy one."

Al Lopez noted: "We haven't done anything easy all year. So it will probably be the same thing in this series."

Main Discussion

The main discussion centered on a sharp ground single hit by pinch-hitter Carl Furillo off Gerry Staley. It came in the seventh inning and brought in two runs.

There was disagreement by observers here, and possibly by the nation's second guessing television audience as well.

Du Pont, GM Move Higher

Remainder of List Mixed; Moderate Volume of Trading
New York—General Motors and Du Pont were strong in a mixed and hesitant stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderate. Gains and losses of most key stocks were small, going to about a point at most either way.

GM and Du Pont surged ahead at the opening in relief over the federal court decision late Friday which provided Du Pont can retain its 63,000,000 shares of GM stock although it must pass on voting rights of a majority of the stock to public holders of Du Pont.

Rubbers were firm while chemicals and airlines moved higher. Rails, utilities, oils and coppers declined. Steels, motors, tobacco and aircrafts were mixed.

As the session wore on, GM kept a gain of about 2 while Du Pont was up more than 3. Such "big" stocks as American Telephone and Jersey Standard were off fractionally. Rails resumed their backward habits.

The industrial average showed a good gain.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 20 cents to $228.00 with the industrials up $1.10, the rails off 70 cents and the utilities down 40 cents.

Corporate bonds were mixed in moderately active trading. U.S. government bonds were firm in quiet dealings over the counter.

No. 8. Resolution of the Agricultural and Conservation Committee. (Authorizing the County Clerk to join in the mortgage for the purpose of subordinating the option of Outagamie County to the mortgage that will be executed by the fair associations to the First National Bank of Seymour, Wis., provided the Corporation Counsel approves the action.)

To The Honorable, The Board of Supervisors of Outagamie County, Wisconsin:

Gentlemen:

WHEREAS, The Outagamie County Fair Association and the Outagamie County Fair, both corporations organized under the laws of the State of Wisconsin, have granted to Outagamie County a mortgage on the property located on which the fair grounds and buildings are located, which option is dated April 16, 1953, and was recorded on May 9, 1953, in Volume 436 of Deeds on page 391 in the office of the Register of Deeds of Outagamie County, Wisconsin, and

WHEREAS, The consideration for such option was the contribution and assistance by Outagamie County in support of the annual fair for years prior to the execution of the said option, and

WHEREAS, The first mortgage mentioned in the option of $120,000 has been paid and satisfied and there is presently no liens or mortgages against the property, and

WHEREAS, The fair corporations have now completed a new building on the premises and they are required to again borrow a sum of money not exceeding $15,000 to pay for the cost of such building, and

WHEREAS, said loan must be evidenced by a note secured by a first mortgage on the real estate of said corporations, said note and mortgage to be for a term of five years, with interest at the rate of five per cent per annum payable semi-annually, and to provide for payments of $3,000 on the principal each year during the term thereof, and the privilege of paying any additional sum at any time, and

WHEREAS, In order to make such mortgage a first mortgage on the premises, Outagamie County would be required to join in said mortgage for the purpose of subordinating the option to the mortgage of the fair corporations, and

WHEREAS, Such an action on the part of the County would be of benefit to the Seymour Fair and would not in any way reduce the value of its option because the building becomes part of the assets of the fair association, in which the option can be exercised, if the County ever so desires.

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY the Board of Supervisors of Outagamie County that the County Clerk be and hereby is authorized and directed to join in the mortgage for the purpose of subordinating the option of Outagamie County required to above to the mortgage that will be executed by the fair associations to the First National Bank of Seymour, Wisconsin, provided that the Corporation Counsel of Outagamie County approves the action of the County Clerk in carrying out the intent and purposes of this resolution.

This 4-Door Hardtop in the Dodge Phoenix series is one of the 20 low-priced Dodge Dart models offered for the first time this year.

Enters 'Big Three' Field With 20 Models for 1960

The 1960 Dodge Dart, the first new line of automobiles to enter the low-priced field since 1928, makes its debut today.

The smaller Dart will be offered in 20 sedan, station wagon, hardtop and convertible models.

"These economy cars are designed to compete in price and size, series for series, with the automobile industry's low-priced big three," said M. C. Patterson, Dodge general manager.

The 1960 models will be available in three series—the lowest-priced Seneca, the Pioneer and the top-series Phoenix.

Engine Development
A completely new 6-cylinder engine—inclined at an angle of 30 degrees in the engine compartment has been designed.

A choice of engines designed to use regular fuel is offered. The Seneca and Pioneer models feature the Slant 6 as standard equipment. Also available is the 318-cubic-inch ram V-8 engine with a 2-barrel carburetor.

The Phoenix has a 318-cubic-inch ram V-8 with a 4-barrel carburetor. The new D-500 ram induction engine also is available in this model with a 383-cubic-inch displacement.

New rubber block and heavy coil spring engine mountings have been installed.

Unified Body
The body and the frame are integrated into a single unified structure. The Unibody gives extra room on the inside and greater structural strength—it also provides a higher level of comfort and quiet for the driver and passengers.

Extensive tests have proven the body construction nearly four times as strong as cars built by conventional body and frame methods.

Twenty separate operations are involved in the body protection and finishing process. They include seven different dipping steps, seven external sprays and six coats of sealers, primers and enamels.

The front features a grille with vertical bars that curve down and forward from the hood, dual headlights and a massive bumper. From the side, the car is accented by a horizontal molding that begins ahead of the front door and extends to the rear bumper. The rear fender rises to its extremity, except in station wagon models where a small fin is canted outward from the body line.

The rear bumper has smooth lines and includes the gas filler in the bumper and round backup lights. The rear license plate is inset in the deck lid.

Safety and Convenience
Optional automatic swivel seats swing out when the door next to an empty seat is opened, and then swing back to the straight ahead position when the door is closed.

Two-position door checks hold doors firmly either in a half-open or full-open position.

Optional "Child Guard" vacuum-powered door locks operate from an instrument panel switch to provide 1-switch locking or unlocking of all doors and tailgate window on wagons.

Deep-dish 4-spoke steering wheel is available with automatic transmissions.

Optional transistorized radios include a rear-seat speaker in all sedans and hardtops except the Seneca. The standard radio has a front speaker only.

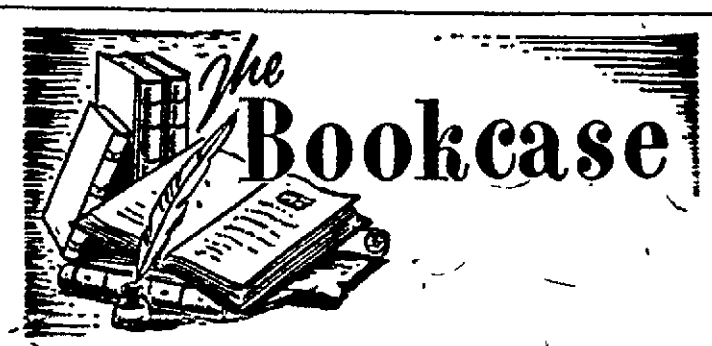

A 4-light warning flasher system, dealer installed, causes all turn signal lights to flash continuously for safety when stopped on the highway.

Versatile Wagons
The Seneca and Pioneer station wagons—designed with women and families in mind—are tailored with:

A sleek, chrome, contour luggage rack, dealer installed, that holds up to 25 square feet of roof-top cargo.

Chrome assist handles that facilitate getting in and out of the rear-facing third seat in the 9-passenger wagons.

A power-operated tailgate window, with control switches on the instrument panel and above the rear window, that is standard for the 9-passenger

Author Scores Liberalism From Far Right Viewpoint

BY W. G. ROGERS
Associated Press Art Editor

"(Up From Liberalism," by William F. Buckley, Jr. Foreword by John Dos Passos, McDowell, Obolensky, $3.50.)

The youngest and at the moment most penetrating voice in the die-hard band of extreme conservatives, Buckley first was heard as author of "God and Man at Yale." Not content with that minor academic target, he now tilts at nothing less than the half of the world we live in: He challenges Liberalism, "the reigning secular ideology of the West."

He concentrates his animus on the American manifestations of the creed he detests—a mere methodology, he snaps.

After deriding some liberals for what he calls blind spots, he denounces the graduated income tax, the ban on religious teaching in public schools, the union shop, the farm laws, the FEPCs. He has his doubts about democracy, universal suffrage and racial desegregation. He even doesn't like middle-of-the-road Republicanism.

Those He Dislikes
Among those toward whom he is particularly acid are Eleanor Roosevelt, Chester Bowles, Owen Lattimore, Allan Nevins, Sen. Fulbright, Richard Rovere, John Kenneth Galbraith, assorted writers on the Washington Post, New York Times and New York Post, President Eisenhower and former President Truman, and foes of McCarthy.

"What does he like? He's against sin, he's for God, and he dedicates his stinging book to 'mentors, colleagues, friends' including James Burnham, John Chamberlain and Whitaker Chambers, who contribute to his magazine National Review.

You'll find nobody and nothing out beyond Buckley on the right; he has reached the ultra conservative position. He describes it well but it had been done before not in detail but in principle in 1900, or even 1850.

Coexistence Theme Scored

CIA Leader Blames Reds for Attack By Laotian Rebels

San Antonio, Texas — (AP) — A U. S. intelligence official today challenged Nikita S. Khrushchev's peaceful coexistence theme, saying the communists organized and armed several thousand Laotian guerrillas in North Vietnam.

Gen. C. P. Cabell, deputy director of the central intelligence agency, also cited Soviet and red Chinese moves in Africa in saying that the communists are actively trying to subvert the free world. "To the free peoples of the west, the bold evidence of communist aggression is not very palatable," Cabell told a National Guard association conference.

"Calling this 'peaceful coexistence' does not make much sense to me."

Russian View
Peaceful coexistence is a communist doctrine which Khrushchev stressed time and again during his recent U. S. visit. The Soviet premier declared that under its peaceful coexistence policy, Moscow avoids interfering with the internal affairs of other countries.

Cabell said Laos and Africa are only two examples of why "there can be no room for complacency or forgetfulness. . . (about) communist acts. . . ranging from smiling faces to mass murder. . ."

In Laos, where a U. N. fact-finding group is now searching for any evidence of outside aid to red rebels, Cabell said "we know that the communists have clandestinely supplied weapons and trained agitators, and are master-minding the operation."

Truman Sees Visit As Aid to Peace

Gives Russia Chance to Prove Sincerity, Amend Broken Pacts

BY HARRY S. TRUMAN
North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.

New York — The communist world now is being informed by Nikita Khrushchev that the American government and the American people do not want war.

I hope the results of this change of attitude will serve the interests of peace.

I would urge that we be alert to developments in the trouble spots of Europe and Asia to make certain that we are not led to misjudge the facts or permit the communists to misunderstand exactly what we are prepared to do.

These troubled areas where peace and freedom have been threatened or are in jeopardy have not been our making, and it is there we will look for the first proof of avowed renunciation of the use of force in interference in the affairs of other nations.

Truman

Disarmament Needed

Never in history has the need for disarmament been so imperative and intimately involved in the everyday life of our people.

While he was here, Khrushchev made suggestions as part of a sweeping disarmament program. Some of these suggestions are realistic where they deal with supervised controls in a gradual

Teacher Stabbed; Boy Arrested

Fredericksburg, Va. — (AP) — A 38-year-old school teacher was stabbed in the back yesterday in her classroom near here. A 12-year-old boy has been charged with assault with a deadly weapon and assault and battery.

Officials of a Fredericksburg hospital said the teacher, Mrs. Alice Gray Newcomb of Fredericksburg, is in good condition. They said she was brought to the hospital yesterday with a knife imbedded about two inches in her back.

The youth, whose name was not released by authorities, was freed under $5,000 bond pending a preliminary hearing Oct. 13 in Stafford county court.

The teacher and the boy are white.

Youth Reports Murder, Ties Up County's Law Agencies

A 19-year-old Little Chute youth's telephone calls to the Combined Locks chief of police and the Outagamie county sheriff's department set up a hurried hunt for a murdered girl this morning.

The youth's escapade began between 10 and 10:30 a.m. today when he called Mrs. Ernest Danielson, wife of Combined Locks' police chief, and reported a supposed murder on Combined Locks' Williams street.

Called Sheriff
Then he called the Outagamie county sheriff's office and told radio operator Edward Metko the same tale. He identified himself

Boy, 15, Dies After Stolen Car Hits Tree

13-Year-Old Companion Still in Hospital; Authorities Try to Determine Who Drove

Richard H. Smaxwell, 15, 2101 E. Wisconsin avenue, found about 11 p. m. Sunday trapped in a stolen station wagon wrecked against a tree at 2281 E. Wisconsin road, died at 4 p. m. Monday in Appleton Memorial hospital.

Two other highway accident deaths raised the state's 1959 toll to 623, compared with 615 on this date a year ago.

Stolen From Lot
Smaxwell died of multiple severe head injuries without regaining consciousness. Three men pried open a door of the station wagon to remove Smaxwell, trapped under the dashboard. A 13-year-old companion was found walking around the wreck in a state of shock. He had a broken jaw and facial cuts. His condition has prevented further questioning by authorities.

The 1958-station wagon was stolen from the Mullen Electric company parking lot, 2002 E. Wisconsin, just a few blocks from where the vehicle left Highway 96, traveled as a Freedom contractor for whom he worked some years ago.

With law enforcement agencies from the sheriff's office, county police and Appleton, Little Chute, Kaukauna, Kimberly and Combined Locks police departments rushing to the scene, checking leads and trying to find the girl mentioned by the youth, the entire county's police protection was tied up.

Little Chute Police Chief Sylvester Vandenberg, acting on a tip from Under-sheriff Donald Heinrich,

Reds Delay Report On Satellite Flight To Moon's Far Side

Soviet Scientists Certain Everything on Schedule

BY PRESTON GROVER

Moscow — (AP) — Soviet scientists kept intent vigil at a receiving "mechanical brain" today as the time arrived for their little flying observatory to begin its historic first reports about the far side of the moon.

By Russian reckoning the 614-pound Lunik III, laden with automatic recording and transmitting instruments, was to soar within 4,350 miles of the moon and start its biggest mission at 8 a. m. CST.

That "moon hour" passed with no immediate word flashed to the eager public that the electronic data was being received by the "mechanical

British Receive Confusing Signals

Jodrell Bank, England — (AP) — Confusing radio signals prevented British observers from deciding immediately whether the Soviet moon rocket made its scheduled pass across the far side of the moon today.

The Jodrell Bank radio telescope, the world's largest, picked up signals at 8:58 a.m.

"brain," a complicated, inter-linked computing system of listening posts and scientific centers.

However, there was no doubt here in the Soviet capital that all was proceeding on schedule.

At least a limited revelation of what the lunik sees is expected.

Flood Damage Survey Begun In Southwest

Tulsa, Okla. — (AP) — The flood-racked southwest, reeling from a weekend of heavy rains, began counting the damage today as waters slowly receded.

Parts of Oklahoma, proclaimed a major disaster area by Gov. J. Howard Edmondson, appeared ready for a mammoth house-cleaning job, barring further heavy rains.

Oklahoma civil defense director Tom Brett said officials would start work determining the extent of damages "as soon as possible." He has estimated damages in Oklahoma would amount to millions of dollars.

Five deaths in Oklahoma were attributed to the weather.

The Texas Department of Public Safety estimated property damage alone at $24 million in the Lone Star state. Two persons are missing and presumed drowned from the Texas floods.

"It is the most extensive flood damage I have ever seen in Oklahoma," reported Gov. Edmondson after his flight over the stricken areas in a national guard jet plane yesterday.

Impact of the heavy rains remained along the Arkansas river at Tulsa. The river reached three feet over flood stage here last night then began receding slightly today.

Ethiopian Prince Arrives as 'Tourist'

New York — (AP) — Ethiopian Crown Prince Merid Azmach Asfa Wossen arrived here today for a 10-week visit in the United States as a "tourist."

He said, however, he hoped to confer with "some of your officials." He intends to visit Washington, Detroit, Denver, Los Angeles and San Francisco and also see agricultural areas.

The prince, accompanied by his wife, arrived aboard the Queen Elizabeth.

Sees Peril To Health And Safety

Palm Springs, Calif. — (AP) — President Eisenhower today invoked the Taft-Hartley law in the docks strike, opening the way for government to seek an 80-day back-to-work court order.

The president, acting at his vacation headquarters, declaring in an executive order that the 6-day strike which has tied up shipping piers from Maine to Texas would "imperil the national health and safety" if permitted to continue.

The shutdown, he added, also has had an impact on the flow of food and other perishable products to the heavily populated coastal areas.

Eisenhower took no legal action, meanwhile, on the 84-day-old steel strike, despite the new collapse of negotiations.

New York — (AP) — Striking longshoremen renewed their offer today to resume negotiations with employers.

The offer came after a federal mediator said the 6-day walkout along the east and gulf coasts is now "a matter for the president."

Patrick J. Connolly, an I.L.A. vice president, said union negotiators were "ready to sit down at an hour's notice" with the New York Shipping association representing employer groups.

Connolly noted, however, that the association has "refused to sit down until Oct. 15," the date to which the union at one time had agreed to extend the old contract.

No Further Talks
The mediation official has declined to schedule further talks with either side.

His announcement came yesterday, along with a statement from Presidential Press Sec. James Hagerty at Palm Springs, Calif., that "the matter of the dock strike is now before the president and the White House . . ."

Steel Strike Continues Until 'Justice Is Done,' Union Committee Decides

BY JOHN MOODY

Pittsburgh — (AP) — The United Steelworkers union, saying it has earned a fair settlement, pledged today to continue the 84-day strike "until justice is done."

McDonald

The union's 170-member wage policy committee issued a statement reaffirming the union's rejection of an industry settlement offer classed by the union as "totally inadequate."

David J. McDonald, union president, said no further meetings were scheduled with the industry. Talks collapsed last night. McDonald proposed a meeting with top executives of five leading steel firms, but they did not reply immediately.

Unity Stressed
With negotiations completely broken off prospects increased that President Eisenhower will invoke the Taft-Hartley act with its 80-day ban against the strike.

McDonald was asked at a news conference after the policy committee meeting for his appraisal of the situation. He replied:

"I would describe it as very grave."

The policy committee statement expressed union solidarity and went on to say:

"We resent the statement by the spokesman for the industry that we are seeking a 'something for nothing' settlement."

"The sweat and hard work of steelworkers has brought hundreds of millions of dollars of record profits to the industry."

"Steelworkers have earned a fair settlement by their work and record productivity. We are asking for the 'reasonable

West Assailed On UN Issue

Russia Says Refusal To Back Poland Adds Cold War Tension

United Nations, N. Y. — (AP) — The Soviet Union accused the western powers today of aggravating the cold war by refusing to support communist Poland for a seat in the U.N. security council.

The United States and Britain along with many other non-communist countries have announced they are backing Turkey for the eastern European seat in the 11-nation council. A decision will be taken by the general assembly soon, perhaps later this week.

In a statement to the press, the Soviet U.N. delegation declared that the western "discrimination" against Soviet bloc countries in eastern Europe must be brought to an end. It added:

"Under conditions where the relaxation of international tension is in evidence, such discrimination is a manifestation of the cold war and is detrimental to the cause of peace."

The Soviet statement was circulated a few hours before Vasily V. Kuznetsov, a Soviet deputy foreign minister, was to address the 82-nation assembly on this and other issues before the current session.

Split Seen Among Greek Cypriots

Nicosia, Cyprus — (AP) — Archbishop Makarios and the former Greek Cypriot underground leader, Gen. George Grivas, are expected to clash at Rhodes tomorrow in a showdown meeting over quarrels which in the past three months have threatened to split Greek Cypriot unity.

Grivas, who is trying to launch himself in Greek politics, has challenged the archbishop to a public debate in answer to the archbishop's charge that Orivas plotted to assassinate him. Instead, a private conference on Rhodes was arranged for tomorrow.

Grivas left Cyprus to live in Athens when the British, Greeks and Turks reached agreement on conditions under which Cyprus is to be granted independence.

A Lockheed Aircraft Corporation official says the day is coming when airliners resembling this drawing will whisk passengers from Europe to Los Angeles in 98 minutes. The drawing was prepared by Lockheed and based on information presented by Hall L. Hibbard, Lockheed vice-president, in a speech at Delft in the Netherlands. Hibbard says tomorrow's airliner will resemble a skin diver's foot flipper and travel at 62 miles in a minute. Jet air intakes would be across the front and passengers will be in a central cabin.

Court Upholds Ouster of Clerk At Fond du Lac

Madison — (AP) — The Wisconsin Supreme court today upheld a circuit court decision that the elected register of deeds of Fond du Lac county is ineligible to hold office.

John G. Brunkhorst, 84, had appealed the lower court's decision and challenged Gov. Gaylord Nelson's, right to name Joseph Krenn, 28, as his successor.

Brunkhorst was reelected last November but the county board later ruled he was unable to perform duties of his office.

In the majority opinion, Justice Grover Broadfoot said it was apparent that Brunkhorst "was well advised before he made his decision and that he elected to receive the benefits of the act with his eyes open."

Quiz Show Winner on Stand

Received Answers in Advance, He Testifies

Washington — (AP) — College student Herbert Stempel testified today he was given questions and answer in advance when he appeared on the now-defunct TV quiz show "Twenty-one" in late 1956.

Stempel, a graduate student in history at New York university, was the opening witness at a 4-day inquiry, before the house subcommittee on legislative oversight, into charges that some of the big name television quiz shows were rigged.

The subcommittee viewed a film of one of Stempel's initial matches with Charles Van Doren, one of the first big money winners of the quiz program.

Tells of Coaching
Then Stempel told of being coached and rehearsing his performances.

Stempel, who charged last year that "Twenty-one" was rigged, said he finally lost to Van Doren purposely, by agreement.

The subcommittee has said that it has no plans to question Van Doren, who has told a New York grand jury he had no idea anything was amiss. Van Doren, at the time of his quiz show appearance, was a Columbia university English professor. Now he is a radio commentator.

Under questioning by subcommittee Chief Counsel Robert Lishman, Stempel swore his role was rehearsed in advance. Among other things, he said he was told which question he was to answer correctly and which one he was to miss. He testified also that Dan Enright, one
